EPA Shelves for One Year Parking Surcharge Regulation

By FRANK LaPIERRE

The Federal Environmental Protection Agency Friday backed away from enactment, for at least a year, of its proposed new anti-smog law that would have imposed stiff parking surtaxes on cities with over 100,000 population starting next July.

Announcement of the government's decision to table the issue for further study and additional public input came midway during a crowded meeting on yet another controversial EPA matter — regulating permits for construction of new developments.

Frank Covington, spokesman for the EPA, informed the hearing that acting EPA administrator John Quarles had decided to shelve the surtax section of the new Federal Regulation at least for another year.

"All measures connected with preparing for the surcharge, such as devising collection systems and setting up administrative machinery, are postponed for six months from the original date, or until Sept. 30, 1974," Covington said.

"The day for actually levying any parking surcharge is postponed for one year from the original date," he said.

Postponement of the measure was credited to mounting opposition generated by various public and local government agencies, including the powerful League of California Cities.

No less than 60 separate lawsuits had been filed in the U.S. Circuit court against the surtax as of last Thursday.

San Mateo County cities, such as Daly City which filed two lawsuits (one for the city and the other on behalf of its Redevelopment Agency), had registered vociferous condemnation of the law.

Hardest hit by the surcharge would be shopping centers, apartments and local government.

A breakdown of the Hillsdale, Tanforan and Serramonte shopping centers — three of the county's largest centers — disclosed each would have to pay in the neighborhood of $2.5 million by July 1976 for its parking spaces under the law.

Government agencies in cities, depending on the number of employees and metered spaces, would pay about half-a-million dollars.

Daly City City Manager David Rowe, in his report to the city council two weeks ago, said such monies would have to come from property taxes "and we cannot raise this tax under the law."

Covington said his offices are cooperating with the League of California Cities on the surtax. He said workshops to discuss the matter will be held starting this month in Los Angeles.

"EPA will also provide citizen groups, business and the general public with ample opportunity to aid in the revision process, particularly since any revision will be subjected to public hearings," he said.

It was a different stance than that adopted by the EPA last month when it was under court order to initiate a plan on controlling pollutants.

The EPA filed its proposals in the Federal Register Nov. 12 and asked for comments on the subject by Nov. 9.

Most cities did not get the report until Nov. 20, according to several San Mateo County officials.

Another reason cited by Covington for tabling the surcharge was that the agency was not certain what effect current gasoline shortages, and possible curtailment of travel, will have on movements of cars — considered the "culprit" in creation of air pollutants.

With the parking surcharge matter out of the way for at least a year, officials from throughout the state renewed their attack on another phase of the EPA's anti-smog plan — the control of "indirect source" of pollutants.

This "indirect source" was explained in the proposed rules as meaning construction of developments, such as apartment houses, shopping centers, garages, recreational areas and amusement parks.

"Everything from a subdivision of 500 homes with two-car garages to another Disneyland," one opponent of the plan told the three-member EPA hearing panel chaired by Richard O'Con-

Wastewater Fuel Eyed

The current energy crisis coupled with skyrocketing fuel costs may provide the impetus for exploring new uses for methane gas.

Methane gas is one of the by-products of wastewater — sewage — collected in every community in the nation.

This wastewater is simply treated and disposed of by one form or another.

The methane gases created during the treatment process are burned off in the atmosphere and serve no useful purpose.

But it could be put to use, good use.

This gas could power motor vehicles, provide heat and electricity, and even be sold commercially, experts say.

The North San Mateo County Sanitation District in Daly City daily "manufactures" some 71,000 cubic feet of methane gas — the equivalent of 500 gallons of gasoline.

And while methane does not produce as high a BTU (the measurement for heat) as propane or other natural gases, it can be put to use as a source of fuel.

For example, by installing a special generator, this methane could be used to not only heat, but provide lighting up for a building.

Channeled through a converter-compressor system, this methane gas can be pumped into tanks and

D.C. Allocates Revenue Sharing

The Daly City City Council Monday approved revenue sharing recommendations amounting to some $420,000 presented by City Manager David Rowe.

Included in the allocations is $22,000 for funding for general bridgetary purposes at the Guadalupe Health Center located in the old city hall building at 75 Wellington Ave.

At the conclusion of the presentation by Rowe, Mrs. Esther Talavara, chairwoman of th Guadalupe Health Center's Board, thanked the council "for understanding and help in providing this service for our community."

The total amount of funding requests submitted to the city was about $1.5 million, Rowe said.

Asked if any of the agencies requesting funds had voiced dissent over his recommendations to the council, Rowe responded: "There is always some dissent on such matters."

Biggest chunk of money, $103,000, went for erosion repairs in the Wildman Gulch area along the ocean cliffs.

Work on the rugged cliff face was done by Arthur "Buzz" Haskins, who Rowe said "personally supervised the project."

"Haskins was the only company that would go into the area with heavy equipment. He did a commendable job at a most reasonable price," Rowe said.

The 90th Street storm drain project, designed to alleviate flooding in the eastern section of the Civic Center property, was granted some $40,000.

Some of the other items funded included: three weedeaters, a woodchipper, stage curtains for the War Memorial Building. Two police cars, two proximity suits for fighting gasoline fires, and an adding machine.

Councilman McRobert Stewart, recently returned from the National League of Cities meeting held in Puerto Rico, said there are attempts underway to halt revenue sharing by 1977.

Stewart said the revenue sharing program was started only a year ago and has "provided us with the opportunity to purchase new equipment with very few strings attached by the Federal Government."

He said it was "incumbent on all of us to see this program is continued."

A former consultant with a federal government agency, speaker at one of the workshops attended by Stewart and councilman Bernard Lycett, told the representatives that cities were not capable of handling the monies and the program should be stopped.

"This man shocked and bewildered the people attending this conference," Stewart reported. "He insulted every community in our country (by making this allegation)."

Federal revenue sharing is assisting cities in getting new monies to purchase equipment and facilities for the people, Stewart said.

SECURITY GUARD CARRIES two-way radio to keep in contact with all points in store where he may be needed. Shopping centers now have centrally located communications and monitoring stations in campaign against shoplifting.

Boom in Shoplifting Detective Equipment

Unwittingly today's shoplifter and pilferer has helped in the design and manufacture of equipment that could lead to his apprehension.

This same criminal element has provided the justification for stores to add security personnel to scrutinize "outsiders," as well as employes, in an effort to cut down on losses.

Losses from shoplifting, pilfering and outright hijacks in the retail outlet industry are usually passed on to the consumer. But shoppers are beginning to balk at steadily increasing prices.

The dramatic increase in shoplifting over the past five years is credited with creating a boom in criminal detection devices.

While many merchants feel that special education programs aimed at youth and participated in by local police and schools is the best weapon in their war on shoplifting, others call for stricter penalties for those caught and accused of such crimes.

They contend that today's shoplifter — professional or amateur — almost always ends up with only a "slap on the wrist."

One point of agreement among store operators, however, is that shoplifters cannot stand attention. Because of this, they instruct employes to "shower a customer with attention."

If a customer sees something out of the ordinary, perhaps another shopper stuffing an item of clothing into a bag, they should quietly inform a store clerk, security experts advise.

Electronic aids are now employed in the war on store crimes.

Closed-circuit television that can be controlled from a central security office, two-way mirrors, and even fake heating ducts, are scattered throughout stores for surveillance of shoppers and employes.

Television monitors in some of the larger stores even make video tapes, with sound, for future reference in investigating cases and prosecuting those arrested.

Throughout stores boasting such devices signs are posted asking that you "Smile . . . you're on camera."

These signs strategically located are posted for psychological reasons, security personnel explain.

There are also specially designed mirrors mounted at vantage points around some stores.

The mirrors are supposed to allow employes to scan every point in a store where shoplifters may be practicing their art.

But unless an employe happens to be looking at the mirror, they are of little use, police admit. The expert shoplifter makes his move when the clerk is busy and hasn't the time to peek at the mirrors.

Some security agents, however, insist mirrors are valuable aides in the detection and apprehension of shoplifters.

With all the emphasis put on modern electronic equipment, which nowadays includes specially attached clothing tags that trip an alarm if a shoplifter tries to leave the store with it, many retailers still consider properly trained personnel to be the backbone of their security system.

"Some 99 per cent of the people who shop at our store are good, honest customers," one store manager explained. "All this equipment and employe training is for that small percentage of shoppers who are not honest in their dealings with us."

What do people steal?

Just about everything imaginable, experts say.

Luxury items, in the case of amateurs.

The professional looks for items — mostly clothing — that can be disposed of

Daly City Sets Voting Hours

It sounded like the patriotic thing to suggest, what with the energy crises and all.

But immediately after Daly City Councilman Bernard "Bud" Lycett presented his idea he had second thoughts and informed fellow councilmen, "I think I'll retract my outstanding suggestion."

Lycett's interest was in conservation of energy during the current national crises and he had asked how the council and city staff felt about closing the ballot boxes one hour early — at 7 p.m., instead of 8 p.m.

Councilman Victor Kyriakis commented that perhaps "anything we do (to close the polls early) may be thought to be unfair by some of the electorate."

The early closing also could work a hardship on those who cannot reach the polls by 7 p.m., Kyriakis said.

Councilman McRobert Stewart echoed Kyriakis' feelings, adding it could "eliminate some voters — although it is a proper point to be brought up in the face of this energy crises."

Councilman Paul Hupf, noting he was the only official whose seat is not up for grabs in the March 5 election, said he would "go along with whatever you decide."

All agreed it was a good idea, energy-wise. However, vote-wise it might not be so good.

The council quickly changed its discussion to a resolution establishing hours of operation during which the polls will be open during the combined Jefferson Elementary School District and Daly City City Council elections in three months.

In an unanimous vote, the council set the hours: 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Two persons so far have taken out nomination papers in the Daly City Council race: The Rev. Raymond Howard, of 1925 Brunswick Court, and Victor G. Kyriakis, of 80 Cliffside Drive.

Vice Mayor Will Not Run Again

Pacifica Vice Mayor Don Halverson unexpectedly announced Monday that he will not be a candidate for his Pacific City Council seat March 5.

He had announced his candidacy for a new term only last Wednesday.

He explained that Monday he had accepted a new assignment with the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. as executive representative in the San Jose division.

The additional responsibilities in a larger area will not allow him time needed for the council, he explained.

Halverson said he would remain on the council until the end of his term.

He was appointed last year to fill the unexpired term of Councilman Nick Gust. He previously served on the Planning Commission.

Another resignation announced was that of Fred Howard, who is quitting the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission because it has moved its meetings to Tuesday and because of his bid for a city council seat.

Councilman Stan Farber commented that "Howard's decision is his. I have no objection to his remaining on the PBR while running for council."

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy said Pacifica has no policy banning commissioners from council races.

With neither Halverson nor Harland Minshew not seeking election, Stan Farber remained the only incumbent expected to try to retain his council post.

Referral Center To Open

The Daly City City Council Monday authorized City Mgr. David Rowe to execute a lease for two offices on Mission Street to be used as the new Information and Referral Center.

The council had previously funded the center with revenue sharing monies at a cost of $32,500, but Rowe said suitable offices could not be

Woodrow Wilson Class Size Spurs Rift Between Teachers, Trustees

Class size in the Woodrow Wilson Elementary School in Daly City has sparked a rift between teachers there and some members of the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees.

The 23 teachers and Principal John Belforte, supported by a group called the Parent Advisory Council, have taken the district administration and board to task for allegedly changing its policies regarding class sizes at the school, according to the board chairwoman, Mrs. Dorothy Adams.

Mrs. Adams said the teachers claimed that a policy, that has been in effect in recent years, holds down the class size at the school to 25 children.

When children exceed that number they are bused to other schools, including Jefferson (soon to close), John F. Kennedy, M. Pauline Brown and Westlake.

But Mrs. Admas said other schools in the district have class sizes exceeding 25 children and neither she nor Supt. Keith Breon could find any written policy concerning the limitation on class sizes at Woodrow Wilson.

One of the main reasons that teachers say they like to have small class sizes is that they can give more attention to each child. The more children, the less time spent with each, instructors say.

Class size at Woodrow Wilson ranges from 28 children down to 23, according to records.

In addition to the 18 teachers, the school now has three compensatory education teachers, a learning disability teacher, one reading specialist and 13 paid instructional aides, Mrs. Adams explained.

On Nov. 30, the "Staff at Woodrow Wilson" and "Parent Advisory Council" sent Mrs. Adams a strongly-worded letter charging that "the board and central administration have demonstrated a lack of respect for the community and professional staff . . . by arbitrarily making decisions vital to the Compensatory Education Program."

The letter writers charged that the board's alleged failure to properly inform teachers and the parents group of a policy change affecting class size at the school "is a breach of professional confidence."

On Dec. 3, Chairwoman Adams in a reply to the charges, noted, "The board has not changed any district policy affecting the Compensatory Education Program. Therefore, the specific source of your complaint is difficult to determine from your letter."

She said the board could better decide what course to follow in the dispute if those concerned with the problem ah Woodrow Wilson would specify "action or actions which have endangered such a high level of concern at your school."

Pacifica Aides Named

Pacifica May$lor Aubrey Lumley Dec. 5 announced appointment of Pacifica's new Transportation and Safety Commission and new appointments to the Youth Advisory Commission and the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission.

The new commission replaces two abolished commissions, Health and Safety and Transportation and Highways.

The Personnel Commission also has been abolished.

State laws have taken away some of the functions of these commissions, and local conditions have changed, Lumley said.

Appointed to the new Transportation and Safety Commission were four members of the old Transportation and Highways Commission — Bill Hammer, Ralph Abrahamian, Lowell S. McGrew and John Plato. Also named was a member of the former Health and Safety Commission, Darrel V. Greer; former Personnel Commissioner John F. Smith, and three newcomers to city government, Warren Gabrielli, vice president of the Fairmont Homeowners, an attorney; Phil Pruett of the Operating Engineers and Sharon R. Neufeld, of Fassler Avenue, one of the organizers of United Citizens of Paifica.

The City Council already has referred several matters to the new commission.

Named to the Youth Advisory Commission are six Terra Nova High School students, Student Body President Debbie Gonzales, sophomore Susan Stark and seniors Daniel Maher, Scott Riewerts, Bill Lepeltak and Robert van Zant; two Oceana High students, Debbie Richardson and Aaron Adams, and Skyline student John Decker.

Lumley said he would like to appoint four more Oceana students, and invited applicants.

Elvin (Al) E. Jones was appointed t$lo the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission, to fill the vacancy left by resignation of Dave Patterson, who left in June.

Jones, who was on the previous Personnel Commission, is manager of the Union Square office of Bank of America.

Robbery Increase in SSF

An alarming increase in the number of armed robberies were noted by South San Francisco Police Chief Sal Rosano, as he issued his quarterly report last week.

The report covered the period of July, August and September.

A considerable increase was also shown for the number of burglaries, while other categories remained essentially the same, according to Rosano.

The chief commented that the increase in robberies can be fought only by "more visible and selective preventive patrol." The patrol section is seven men short, as four men are attending the basic academy and three allocated positions are unfilled. Rosano pledged that every effort will be made by fill all positions by Jan. 1.

He expressed the hope that the recently initiated four-city Burglary Prevention Unit will have an impact on the rise in burglaries.

There were a total of 15 robberies in the third quarter of 1973, compared to nine robberies during the same period of 1972. Burglaries rose from 132 to 173, with the loot rising from $36,318 to $51,723.

Auto thefts rose from 41 to 53, while other thefts fell from 261 to 256. A total of 336 adults were arrested, compared to 332 last year. Child arrests fell from 181 to 171.

Successful investigations were cited in the fields of robbery, rape, narcotics, grand theft and forgery.

Success was reported in the department's fight against traffic casualties.

While the number of fatalities for the first nine months of 1973 rose from zero to two, the total number of injury accidents fell from 159 to 113. Property damage accidents fell from 876 to 770.

Citations for dangerous driving rose from 3550 to 4621. Drunk driving arrests rose from 125 to 225.

During the last quarter, at least 22 persons who appeared unfit to drive were sent home by taxi or other responsible means.

DC Agency Joins in Tax Fight

Daly City's Redevelopment Agency Board has joined the growing number of agencies and cities protesting the new parking surtax proposed by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Last week the city council, which also acts as the Redevelopment Agency, authorized its staff to find ways and means of stopping the surtax, which could cost the city as much as $500,000 a year by 1976.

Local commercial establishments would have to pay about $3.5 million a year if and when the surtax becomes reality, it was explained by City Manager David Rowe.

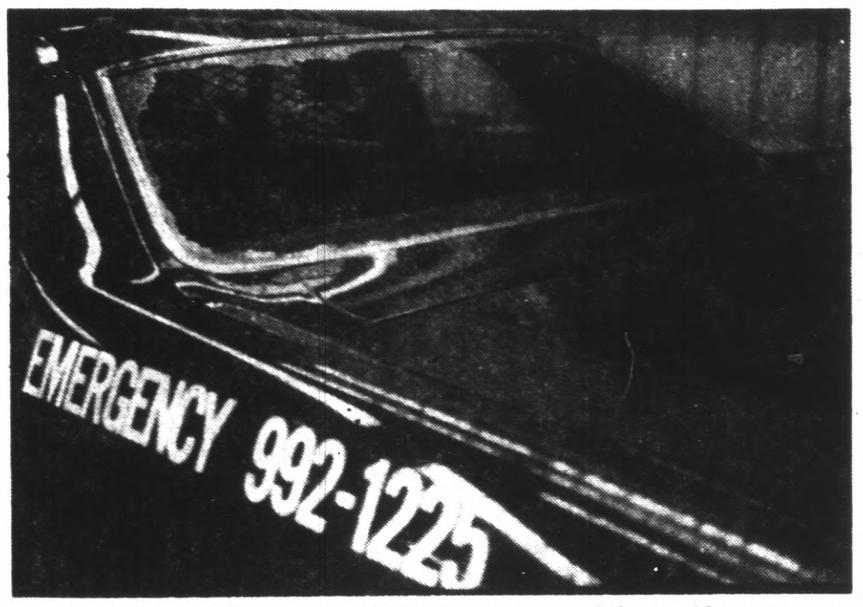
100-Mile-Per-Hour Gun Battle



DALY CITY POLICE cars were shot up during chase of three robbery suspects last week. Vehicle driven by officer Bob Vogt was hit with .44-caliber slugs three times on driver's side (below), while car driven by fellow officer Bob Sola had its rear window blasted out (above). (Post Photos by Bob McLeod)

A running 100-mile-per-hour gun battle between police and three robbery suspects ended in a shootout at a roadblock on the Guadalupe Canyon Parkway in Daly City Dec. 5.

One of the gunmen was shot in the right leg and arm in the exchange between police from Daly City and South San Francisco.

The incident began about 3:30 p.m. when the trio allegedly held up the 57 Club, 1001 Airport Blvd., in South San Francisco and forced owner Alfred Firenzi, 47, to hand over some $200 in bar receipts.

After grabbing the money, the men fled in a waiting car toward Daly City.

The suspect car was spotted by South San Francisco policeman Robert Collins heading north at a high rate of speed along Hillside Blvd.

Collins attempted to stop the car, but instead the occupants began firing at him and accelerating their speed, police said.

At speeds topping 100 miles per hour other officers from South San Francisco joined the pursuit, exchanging gunfire with the occupants of the car as it sped through Colma and into Daly City.

Daly City police, alerted by radio to the suspect vehicle, joined the chase as the car came into the intersection of East Market Street and Hillside.

Shots were exchanged between persons in the car and police. One bullet shattered the windshield of officer Bob Sola's car as he pulled alongside.

Several shots struck the door of another Daly City police car driven by officer Robert Vogt, before the robbery suspects spun out at the corner of Third and East Market.

Vogt succeeded, however, in blocking any further attempt by the suspects to flee the scene by blocking the getaway car with his police car.

From inside the disabled car the gunmen continued to fire at police, according to Capt. David Hansen.

In all, between 12 and 16 shots were fired on both sides.

No police officer was hit in the gun fight.

Homer Hayes, 49, wanted in Oregon for armed robbery and now living in Hayward, was struck in the arm and leg and taken to Mary's Help Hospital for treatment.

Two other occupants, Paul Arnold, 47, of South San Francisco, and Carroll Mack Leard, 52, who gave the Delta Hotel in San Francisco as his present address, surrendered. Both were taken to the Daly City jail.

All three men were charged with attempted murder, Hansen said.

Two handguns — a .38-caliber and .44-caliber — were found in the car, police said.

South San Francisco police are expected later to charge the trio with attempted murder, assault with intent to commit murder and armed robbery after Daly City police file their charges.

Pot, Alcohol Use Growth Predicted

Five years down the road significant alcohol use by senior high school males is expected to surge to 79 per cent from the present figure of 63 per cent.

That 1978 prediction is made in a recently released study by Lilian S. Blackford, statistics chief for the County Health and Welfare department, and Dr. John Magistad.

Unless there is a change of direction by some force in the social milieu or the educational process, use of alcohol will also increase significantly by that year for freshman males, from 48 to 74 per cent, Mrs. Blackford said.

As for marijuana, the five-year span will bring a significant use growth predicted at 60 per cent from the present 45 per cent for seniors, and a rise to 55 per cent from 32 per cent for freshmen.

Significant use is defined by Mrs. Blackford to mean using a drug on ten or more occasions during a year.

The new study is based on six surveys of student drug usage conducted annually by Mrs. Blackford. She said she used complex statistical-computer techniques to develop projections on the seven drugs surveyed.

The study has made possible predictions of future use of both alcohol and marijuana in the County's junior and senior high schools through 1978.

The San Mateo County data is the longest series of comparable observations of levels of student drug use available in the country, and the computer study may be the most sophisticated attempt to make future projections, Mrs. Blackford said.

Things Really as Bad as They Seem?

What about the economy? The seers of gloom and doom, as usual, see gloom and doom. Investors behave in the manner of a frightened herd of sheep — reacting to every new shock and alarm. Are things really that bad?

Probably not. Our national mania for bad news and overstatement could bring us down — but all of the news is not all that bad. Some influences are bullish, and in our present spasm of fright and self pity we tend to forget these.

National defense requirements remain huge. There is no reason to expect that our total investment in defense will decline — it probably will rise, moderately. Sensible national management requires rehabilitation of an obsolescent fleet and continuing rearming and modernization of land forces. Talk is current of the need of a new generation of missiles and atomic warheads.

Self-sufficienty is a recognized imperative. We must build on American soil a vast array of plants and equipment. Oil refineries, steel mills, aluminum and nonferrous metals capacity, paper mills, and so on and on, are all needed. Our merchant fleet is in pitiable condition.

Demand, moreover, shows no sign of drying up immediately. It is true that expected increases in sales or many commodities have slackened. But the affluent American remains, for the moment, affluent, and a prodigious consumer.

At first glance, employment prospects appear glum. It seems as though the nation's employers are overjoyed in announcing cutbacks. Many of these are immediate, but in some instances firms are announcing layoffs that will not be completed for months. If companies putting out such fear bulletins wanted to scare the wits out of the nation they couldn't do a better job. This practice could result from several motivations: Use of a squeaky wheel technique to establish later claim to scarce fuel, an effort to influence Middle East political policy, or just damn foolishness.

If we are going to continue to produce we must do so with reduced reliance on power. In some fields planned mechanization will be postponed. Other companies may find it necessary to cut back uses of power and to replace, for example, part of a fully automated production line with human energy. Still other uses of power may have to be eliminated. Thus, for example, golf courses may be manicured by hand labor or not at all.

These facts could mean increased employment, albeit with reduced productivitiy, and with a substantial change in the kind of job that will be available. Nonetheless, if we are to continue to produce, the call for manpower will be great.

In the process of adjustment to new market realities, other things will happen. Detroit eventually will get over the sulks and retool for smaller cars. With new incentives, the search for oil and oil shales and partial conversion to coal mean more activity and more jobs. Rapid transit systems offer vast opportunities for employment.

In the international sense, our economy has turned to agriculture as the foundation for favorable trade balances. There is little in the long-term world situation to change this prospect. With acreage releases of the last year we should, in the coming 12 months, grow more than ever before.

Finally, some of our competitors in world markets for manufactured goods are experiencing their own shortages and rising costs. We may even compete more evenly in these areas in coming years.

These pressures, and others, will certainly tend to reduce any approaching decline. In fact, our future depends upon national attitudes concerning present shortages. If we attempt to slake our legitimate appetite for things we must have and also indulge in reasonable production of those goods and services we want to have, our immediate problems could engender after a period of adjustment, boom, not bust.

There will, of course, be casualties. There will be selective recessions and even depressions. Certain industries (e.g., luxury planes) are in for a slump. Geographically, some areas will experience hard times (e.g., Reno, Las Vegas, Phoenix, Miami Beach).

But if the down boys will give us half a chance, we could meet the present challenge with ebullience, not listlessness.

Police Service Consolidation

Justice Grant Approved For N. County

Processing of documents for a $66,660 grant through the County Council on Criminal Justice to finance the first year of a three-year study on consolidation of police services for four north San Mateo County cities has been completed, County Manager M. D. Tarshes reported last week to the Board of Supervisors.

Supervisor William H. Royer said that he has been notified that the CCCJ has assured that the funds will be forthcoming.

The cities of South San Francisco, Daly City, Pacifica and San Bruno will participate in the study which emphasize coordination of planning, research, data processing, communications and dispatching, purchasing, recruitment, training and cost sharing.

Tarshes said the project is not intended to lead to physical consolidation of police forces, but only to services.

The grant, he stated, will finance a full-time coordinator, a research assistant, a part-time clerk, plus about $30,000 for assistance from a management consultant. A policy guidance committee composed of the four police chiefs will oversee the project, with the assistance of senior officers in the departments.

Tarshes noted that the crime rate in the four cities, with a total population of some 200,000, increased over 400 per cent between 1960 and 1970, with the cost of law enforcement increasing from an average of $5.95 per capita to $20.02 during the decade.

The county manager said that the four cities are committed to the three-year project, with the hope that they will be able to make more effective use of money, equipment, information and manpower resources.

The four cities have more than 200 sworn police personnel and operating budges in 1972-73 of more than $4 million.

PF Women Set Holiday Party Dec. 13

The annual Christmas Party of the Pacifica Federated Women's Club will be held in the home of Mrs. Orpha Kibler, Dec. 13, at 8 p.m.

Club members will exchange gifts and will also contribute to the Welfare Basket for needy families that is sponsored by the Lions Club.

Chairmen for the Christmas Party are Mrs. Linda Tyler and Mrs. Marjorie Whitney.

Filing For Scholarship Deadline Set

The California State Scholarship and Loan Commission reminds high school seniors that the postmark deadline date for the filing of College Opportunity Grant applications is Dec. 14.

College Opportunity Grants are primarily for disadvantaged students who plan to initiate their college education at a public community college.

New grants will be awarded to students who generally, though not exclusively, are minority and come from low income families and who are not necessarily able to obtain scholarships by the use of conventional selection methods.

Tiger Tales First Edition Arrives

The first edition of Tiger Tales, Terra Nova High School's award winning news-magazine, arrived Nov. 19. The quarterly 40-page magazine is published by the school's advanced journalism class.

Major stories were: The New People by Margaret Battaion, an article about the new teachers this year; Senate Bill 1112, The New Student Freedom Law by Karen Kerby; A Sane Asylum, a story about new acting group in Pacifica by Laura Del Rosso; Athlete, Coach, Teacher, Administer, a story by Kathy Schmid about Don Delbon's promotion to assistant principal; Teenage Depression by Katie Dryden; Rudy Rahn Exchange Student In From Columbia by Clifford Blume; "Wow It's A Big Place," a story on Hogan White, a new student from Korea by Sandi Bryant; "I Am Black And I Know It," an article on growth problems on the campus by Lance Hilo.

In the sports department, Bob Van Zant wrote a story on how some of Terra Nova's former football stars have progressed in college; Dave Downing did "What Is Water Polo?" and Doug Hansen wrote, "District Funds Aren't Enough; Athletes Must Help Support the Program."

An emphasis was put on the planned construction to start in February and the student parking problem. Because of the construction there are no student parking lots, so students must park along the sidewalks, which creates a problem for many. The cover of the magazine is a blueprint of the plannex expansion.

The editor-in-chief of Tiger Tales is Dennice Rieweerts; the managing editor is Sandi Bryant; Feature editor is Katie Dryden; news editor is Lance Hilo; and the co-sports editors are Bill Lepeltak and Bob Van Zant. Their advisor is Mr. Pacini.

The War Against Shoplifting

quickly or taken back for a refund without too many questions being asked.

One thing police admit all shoplifters have in common is intestinal fortitude.

When it comes to pulling off his crime, the shoplifter depends completely on bluffing his way through, even when caught red-handed.

For example: A man walked into a San Francisco department store, picked up an expensive 40-pound dictionary and walked out the door. It was later recovered at his apartment when police arrested him on another charge.

Another case involved a middle-age woman who managed to struggle home from a Westlake department store with a 9-foot by 12-foot rug, also later recovered when she was apprehended trying to pull off another shoplift in Daly City.

It took two store employes to carry the rug back to the store, police said.

There is a story around police departments about the fellow who last year walked into a Serramonte store in Daly City, grabbed a portable color television set and made a dash for his car parked outside.

He never quite made it! Store clerks tackled him as he left the store.

Two men and a woman ran into a Westlake men's store a while back, pulled several suits off a rack and ran to a waiting car parked nearby.

The trio escaped before startled store clerks realized what had happened.

Since that time, the store has taken the trouble to reverse every other hanger on its clothing racks.

Police have this warning for shoplifters:

With all the sophisticated equipment being used today to detect and assist in the apprehension of criminals, there is little doubt you are being watched by someone or something in whatever store you decide to do your Christmas shoplifting in.

DC Referral Center

found until early this month.

Four positions — a community services supervisor, two service representatives and a clerk typist — were also authorized by the council to staff the center.

City Clerk Mrs. Anna Ohlendorf is also expected to make food stamps available at the center.

"With implementation of these steps (minimal improvements to the interior of the offices) it is anticipated that we could open the center (on) Jan. 21, 1974," Rowe told the council. "Present city personnel would be temporarily assigned to the center until new positions are filled."

Surcharge Shelved

nell, director of Enforcement for the EPA's Ninth Area.

The proposed rules point out that the building of a facility that might attract 1,000 cars must come under the EPA's review for approval or disapproval.

Attorney Ralph Livingston, representing the State at the hearing, called the section unconstitutional and an attempt by the federal government to circumvent local land use laws.

He said he would recommend filing a suit "within 30 days after adoption of this proposal."

Pacifica Mayor Aubrey Lumley called the EPA proposals "a classic example of Ivory Tower thinking" and said his city was not alone in opposing the plans.

Daly City City Attorney Albert Polonsky voiced concern about the consequences the plan might have on new subdivision developments around the state.

Polonsky said conceivably a development of 500 homes designed with two-car garages could fall into the "1,000 car category."

"And if the EPA wanted to count the two curbside parking spaces along with the two-car garage, this would lower the number of dwellings to 250 homes. This fragments developments to the point of chaos as far as planning and costs go," Polonsky told the hearing.

The impact on redevelopment could be disasterous, Polonsky said.

For example, if Daly City, which is now mapping the redevelopment of a commercial strip along Mission Street, decides to take several parking lots and lump them into one large one for better esthetics and control, the plan just go to EPA for review and approval.

"In the case of redevelopment, nothing can be done until the local agency has held a series of hearings with various groups. Once they approve the plan locally, we would then have to send it to the EPA for final approval. And if the EPA recommends modification the Redevelopment Agency would have to go back through a long series of hearings again," Polonsky said.

Pacifica Will Dicker On Scavenger Increase

Pacifica Mayor Aubrey Lumley and Councilman Harland Minshew will negotiate on the city's behalf with the Coastside Scavenger Co over a request for a 60-cent monthly rate increase.

In asking for the rate hike, the firm's president, Mario Torrigino, blamed the energy crisis, as well as new union wage increases, for skyrocketing his costs.

Other increases, he said, include postage costs, dumping charges in Daly City and several new benefit increases given employes.

There was some criticism because the company received a rate increase in April 1972, under a contract which states that the contract cannot be reopened until Sep., 1974.

Councilman Stan Farber said the city's contract with Coastside Scavenger Co. should coincide with the union contract.

Emory Lebonville, a Moana Way resident, urged that the company could save money if the city would collect the tax bill.

A major issue was the city's appropriation of $15,000 for hiring a financial and management consultant to analyze and submit recommendations regarding the firm, recommended by Thompson.

"Our staff is not capable of exploring all the ramifications of the rate structure," declared Thompson.

"We still live in a country where a man is entitled to run his own business," said Farber. "I don't think we need a $15,000 consultant to tell us things we already know."

Methane Gas

used to power motor vehicles.

Victor Van Aspern, plant superintendent at the Daly City facility, said vehicles powered by this fuel do not have the range vehicles would have running on ordinary fuel, such as gasoline or diesel.

However, in most cases the vehicles would be used for local city purposes, Von Aspern said.

The plant, Von Aspern said, now processes some four million gallons of wastewater daily. The plant is self-sufficient and has been using methane gas to heat its digesters, which treat raw sewage, and the plant building for several years.

Special equipment needed to convert the methane into a fuel to provide energy for a building or to run vehicles is expensive, Von Aspern said.

But if the energy crisis worsens, or the availability of gasoline becomes scarce, the answer could well be in using this excess methane gas.

"The knowledge that this gas can be used for power certainly isn't new," Von Aspern said. "It just hasn't been economically feasible up to now to use it as a fuel for cars and trucks."

Toys for Tots will be the beneficiary of "an old fashioned stage production" being presented tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in the Sunshine Garden School in South San Francisco.

Girl Scout troop 1297 is responsible for the program and the girls have been working for weeks to make the evening fun for everyone who would like to see a delightful show and help bring the holiday spirit to some less fortunate family.

Each family attending the program is asked to bring one new toy to be donated to the Toys for Tots annual Christmas drive.

Other Girl Scout troops are busy spreading Christmas cheer on the north Peninsula. Mrs. Diane Holder of Troop 2817 reports that the Scouts in her unit are decorating the main door of a local convalescent home with pine cones. Troop 2855, under the leadership of Mrs. Annette Chiappari, is making bean bags and attaching a candy cane, and those items will be distributed to children in the San Francisco Youth Guidance Center. Other troops are making presents for their families and baking items for troop parties.

On the adult level, the leaders of the Daly City Girl Scout Association will meet tomorrow at 10 a.m. at Hope Lutheran Church for the annual Christmas luncheon and association meeting.

Mrs. A. B. Donovan will present information about religious awards available to scouts, and Mrs. Margaret Connolly will accept unit chairmen reports.

Following the pot luck luncheon, being coordinated by Mrs. Pat Knox, Mrs. Jean Goodsell and Mrs. Caroline Futrell, there will be a gift exchange. Plans call for the conclave to end about 1 p.m.

The meeting and luncheon is open to every registered adult in the Daly City association.

THE MEMBERS of the Pacifica Fifty Plus club are enthusiastically preparing to give their annual Christmas party for the World War I veterans now in the Menlo Park Veterans Hospital.

Each year the club works exceeding hard to make this a festive occasion with a generous supply of holiday baked goods and candies for these men, (many of whom are without family or outside friends), and entertainment.

The party is planned Saturday and Maral Smith, club vice president, would be very happy to hear from anyone wishing to contribute to the party. Needed are Christmas decorated cup cakes and homemade candies in aluminum pans. Gifts for men, nicely wrapped, are needed, but donors are asked to remember that alcoholic beverages are not allowed and razor blades are unsafe for many of the men.

In addition to Christmas items, the club members will be taking boxes of good used clothing for distribution to the veterans.

Many of the men are able to repair electrical appliances and if anyone would like to donate old radios, irons, phonographs, coffee pots or like equipment should call Smith and arrange to have the contribution go to the hospital on Saturday with the club. The men repair the items and then sell them for spending money.

Club members who plan to go to the party will meet at the Pacifica City Hall at 11:45 a.m. The bus will leave at noon.

Following the party at the hospital the club members plan to stop for dinner before returning to their homes. Anyone wishing to go is asked to call Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg.

FOOD OF ALL types is needed to fill Christmas baskets destined for the homes of men and women who will be spending the holiday in prison.

Frequently the public forgets that many convicted felons have small children and wives or husbands that are the innocent victims of the tragedy wrought by one member of the family. Such families are often in need, and during the holidays it seems an appropriate time to reaffirm, to one and all, the concern of all people of good will for those less fortunate.

Mrs. Rudy Enberg of South San Francisco is the director of Friends Outside in the Bay Area, and she and her staff are asking for public support of their efforts to collect canned goods and staples for the approximately 50 boxes that will be filled. In addition, at least 50 small Christmas trees with decorations are needed as many of the families will be unable to afford any type of Christmas decoration to brighten their homes during the holidays. Trees that have been used in school classrooms or by Scout troops are especially welcome.

The Friends Outside will hold a Christmas party for the 150 to 200 children of prisoners Dec. 19.

CHAIRWOMEN of the St. Andrew's Church Guild from left, Mrs. Diane Arapov, Mrs. Marie Kanon and Mrs. Cleo Patch are busy preparing for their annual Christmas Boutique Dec. 15 and Dec. 16 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the church in the St. Francis Square Shopping Center. The boutique will feature game prizes and gifts. (Post Photo by George Brooke)

San Francisco Wedding For N. County Couple

St. Monica's Church in San Francisco was the setting for the marriage of Jeannette Piernik and Tim Dane.

The new matron is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Piernik of Daly City. Her bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Montosa, who also live in Daly City.

A white velvet dress fashioned with an Empire bodice and pearl detailing was worn by the bride when she said her vows. Dresses with blue velvet bodices and blue chiffon skirts were worn by members of her bridal party.

Patty Wageman and Joyce Baranoff, the bride's sister, served as maid and matron of honor, respectively. Pam Montosa, sister of the bridegroom, shared bridesmaid duties with Sheryl McDowell, Angie Baranoff, Kathy and Linda Bearss and Jeannette Pinilla.

Tammy and Yvette Baranoff shared flower girl duties.

Gary Peachey stood with Tim as best man. Ushers included George Baranoff, Mike Seaman, Ray Dane, his brother, Gary Passucii, Brett Baron, Edgar Pinilla and Dave Gonzalez.

The Jack Tar Hotel was the setting for the reception

Troop 179 Holds Court Of Awards

Troop 179 of South San Francisco held a Court of Awards to give out service pins, patrol warrants, rank and merit badges and to bestow on Dick Brodhead the bronze palm, on David Zyski, who led the Souts in the Pledge of Allegiance, Boy Scout oath, and law.

Al Nogare, Asst. Scoutmaster, presented a one year pin to Tom LaGrave, a two year pin to Dave Bergero, and to Dean Fosberg a six year pin.

Jim Fosberg, Scoutmaster, presente$id the troop's two new Assistant Scoutmasters, Rich Fosberg and Al Nogare.

David Zyski is now Senior Patrol Leader, Lee Truggas Asst. Senior Patrol Leader, and Phil Wright troop scribe. New patrol leaders are Bill Shaefer, Steve Tyler, Dave Bergero and Pierre Marestin.

Rose Minnick, wife of Vince Minnick, Northern District Commissioner, received her Scouters Wife Award. This award recognizes the often lonely nights spent by the wife of an active scouting husband.

Herb Werner, old goat patrol leader, inducted Rick Fasberg, Marlin Strom, Herbert Hoover, and Tom LaGrave, Sr., into a patrol of adult men who have spent at least one night camping with the Scouts.

Opening the Court of Honor, Scoutmaster Fosberg and Zyski light each candle representing the Boy Scout Law calling on each Scout to renew their oath. Fosberg welcomed Gary Bergero, Joe Dostie, and Glenn Klipfel and their parents into the troop.

Don Zyski, Committee Chairman and Rich Fosberg, Asst. Scoutmaster, presented earned merit badges to David and Robert Bergero, Dean Fosberg, John and Pierre Marestin, Dean and Lee Truggas, Gus and Arias Vellis, Matt Werner, Ken and Randy Won, Philip Wright and David Zyski.

Harvey Tyler, Asst. Scoutmaster, gave Ken Won and Tom LaGrave their Tenderfoot badges. Fulvio Garzoli, Asst. Scoutmaster, presented to Aris Vellis his second class rank. Jerry Segalas, Asst. Scoutmaster, announced that Dave Bergero and Philip Wright had earned their Star rank. And Jim Treggas, Asst. Scoutmaster, presented to Rob Bergero his Life Scout badge.

Opening the National Court of Honor, Fosberg announced that Eagle Scout Dick Brodhead had earned his Bronze palm, the first step after Eagle, earning five additional merit badges.

Eagle Scout Zyski earned the Silver Palm, an additional fifthee merit badges after the 21 required for Eagle. Fosberg called on Al Horn, council president, to present the Eagle Scout charge to Matthew Werner.

Horn spoke of more than 400 units in this council of which Troop 179 is the strongest with 23 Eagle Scouts.

Werner asked his father to pin on his Eagle Scout badge and then he presented to his mother a silver miniature Eagle and a bouquet of flowers. Werner also received the traditional white neckerchief, a hand carved eagle slide and a mug.

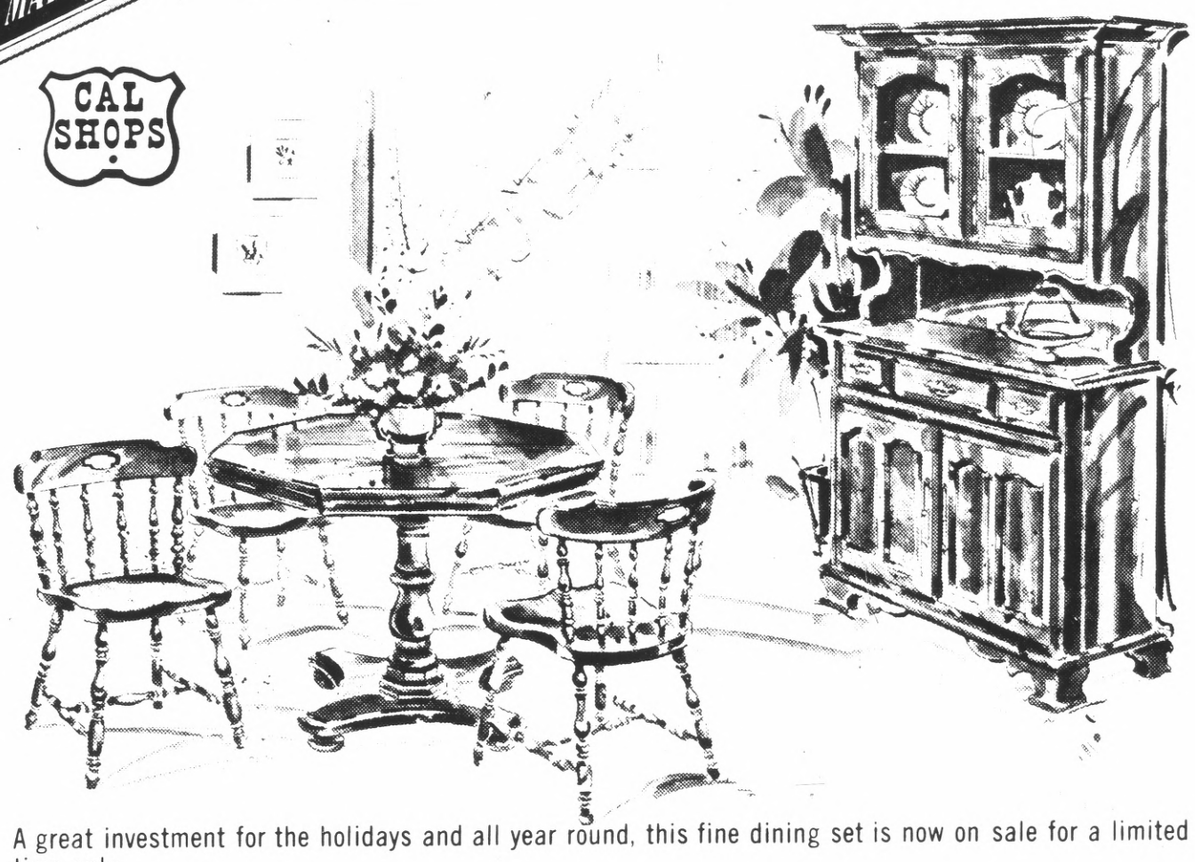
More than a holiday buy . . . IT'S A GREAT INVESTMENT!

CAL SHOPS



A great investment for the holidays and all year round, this fine dining set is now on sale for a limited time only.

A great investment because it's constructed entirely of wood with the exception of the genuine Formica dining table top. The finish is hand-rubbed to a warm natural glow, bringing out the full beauty of the birch grains.

The 5-piece group includes 4 "Farm House" chairs and a 42" octagonal pedestal table which extends to 64" with two aproned leaves. Geared equalizing slides allow the table to extend smoothly without binding. The matching grain of the Formica top is incomparable.

This elegant Buffet and China features the same quality construction and perfectly matched finish. The Buffet measures 38"x18"x32" and has a special felt-lined silver compartment and a linen drawer. The China top measures 40"x14"x41½" and has two glass doors.

A great investment because it is made by Cal-Shops.

Latin Club Slates Christmas Party

Members of the Holy Angels Latin Club have set Dec. 15 for their annual "Children's Christmas Party" at the church hall from 1 to 4 p.m.

As in past years, the club hopes to treat over 500 children from the Daly City-Colma area.

Christmas of 1972 was an example of what a united community effort can produce, for according to club members the event was a big success.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Slater, owners of the MacDonald's Restaurant of Daly City, will bring 500 hamburgers and refreshments for the children who attend the party.

Lee Lane with her "Red Shoe" school of dance will provide the entertainment; offices from the "Officer Bill" program will mingle with the young crowd.

Sisters Mary Ann and Eulalia, from Mary's Help Hospital; Mrs. Kathy Gilligan, from the St. Andrew's Parish community; Bruce Barichievich, from El Camino High School and stores such as the Emporium-Capwell and Alec's are joining with the club members to sponsor the event.

Toys and donations are needed to make the party a success since this event is for all children and extends across all ethnic and religious bounds.

Contribution and wrapped presents for boys or girls between the ages of 2 and 11 years may be brought to the Holy Angels Church rectory at 107 San Pedro Rd., Colma.

For more information call Mrs. Beatriz Zamudio at 992-5979 or Mrs. Rhina Gonzalez at 992-3591.

Skyline Adds Two Courses

Skyline College's Continuing-Evening College will have a number of changes and additions as the staff prepares for the Spring 1974 semester.

The two latest additions are:

Business 66 (Accounting) which will be taught Tuesday evenings in Bldg. 7, room 409 from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

A unique and new speech communication class will be offered off the campus. Ms. Clara Poor will teach a three unit Speech Communications (Speech 1A) course at the Citizens Savings, 475 San Mateo Ave., San Bruno between 4:10 to 5 p.m. starting Feb. 4.

The class is designed to increase speech communications and listening skills with an emphasis on aiding the student in business, personal, and community activities. Only 30 students will be admitted to this class.

Journalism 1 (Introduction to Mass Media) which was originally scheduled for Tuesday evenings starting Feb. 5, will be held each Monday, Feb. 4, in the new campus center building, Bldg. 2, room 109A.

Continuing-Evening College schedules and catalogs now are available in all San Mateo County libraries and on the SC campus.

For further information call Continuing-Evening College, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., 355-7000, ext. 301 or 6 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., 355-6580 or 355-6022.

Creek Contract Awarded

A $372,508 contract has been awarded by the County Board of Supervisors to the firm of McGuire and Hester, Oakland, for construction of the East Colma Creek storm drain improvement project in north San Mateo County.

The project extends from a point near A Street in Daly City to F Street in Colma.

Funds for the project will come from an assessment district approved by the Board of Supervisors last month.

The contract was awarded by the board at its Dec. 4 meeting.

Also, at the meeting, the board authorized a maximum expenditure of $35,000 for soil testing and preliminary engineering services to evaluate possible bypass alternate alignments east of Bayshore Freeway in the separate Colma Creek flood control project in South San Francisco.

County Engineer S. H. Cantwell Jr. recommended authorizing the firm of Wilsey and Ham, which is doing the engineering for the flood control project, to retain the firm of Coope$lr-Clark and Associates to perform the soils work.

Bypass alternates are needed, Cantwell said, because preliminary studies indicate that little work should be done along the creek below Bayshore due to poor soil strength and that the existing capacity of the creek in the area cannot carry flows without modification of South San Francisco's local storm drain system.

The Press

Have you heard of the Knight of The Noose who shoots at governors and mayors with weapons as small as pins and as sharp as pencil heads?

Can we not in this age of sentences jumbled and loose, ask newsmen to write according to the codes of ethics formulated by their profession?

Listen to one such code. "The right of a newspaper to attract and hold readers is restricted by nothing but consideration of public welfare. The use that a newspaper makes of the share of public attention it gains serves to determine its sense of responsibility, which it shares with every member of its staff. A journalist who uses his power for selfish or otherwise unworthy purposes is faithless to a high trust."

To comply with this and other words from "The Canons of Journalism" as adopted by the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the reporter, and the columnist too, must discipline his desires to turn a cute phrase, to adopt causes and to ride on the backs of public officials. He must teach himself to realize that his reaction to a given issue or to a given official is to be distrusted or not published at all, until it has been examined for validity and brought into line with facts.

In this respect M.L. Stern wrote in his "Freedom Of The Press." " . . . the newsman has a definite obligation to be fair in his reporting of events. On controversial issues, both sides should get an impartial play in the story (or column)." Nothing else is acceptable.

Contemplation of such high ethics caused columnist Bob Considine to pen his "Newspaperman's Prayer" "Oh God, may I be Fair. Circumstances and dumb luck have placed in my thumby paws a degree of authority which I may not fully comprehend. Let me not profane it."

Is it not profane to storm councils and boards for decisions before studies have been finished? Is it not profane to side with one faction or another of a board while an issue is being debated? Is it not profane to furnish evidence for the proponents of an issue and ignore the case for the opponents? Is it not profane as a "johnny-come-lately" to enter controversies that one cannot understand until he has spent hours in study?

The public has a right, writes Stein "to know the truth about the ever changing world around us." It is not interested nor should it be subjected to opinions of newsmen who exhibit very little knowledge.

M.L. Stein's "Freedom of the Press" was published in 1966 and has been widely read. "Editor and Publisher" found it to be a fine text, while Best Sellers said, "This small volume will help students to understand the many opportunities that exist in journalism and communication arts in general."

But Who Will Care for the Baby?

Young Mothers Are Returning to College

An increasing number of young mothers with small children are expressing their desire to go back to college and complete their education in the district served by the College of San Mateo.

But they have a problem . . . Who will take care of the baby?

Jackie Massing, a 42-year-old San Mateo woman who has gone back to the College of San Mateo to complete her own education is more than sympathetic.

As president of the Associated Women Students, Mrs. Massing knows the problem from personal experience, having had the desire to return to school for years and being prevented by the need to take care of small children. Two of her children are now in high school.

"The more I have talked to women students on campus, the more determined I am to help provide a child care service for them," she says.

"So many of our students have to go on welfare if they want to go to school. They can't go to school and hold down a fulltime job, hence they are forced to seek public help, and that is a degrading and undesirable situation," Mrs. Massing says.

"We need to know what off-campus mothers' needs are in regard to child care. I have received calls from such people as public health nurses who tell us of young mothers, frustrated at not being able to find educational outlets," Mrs. Massing adds.

The current effort is to gather as much information through state and federal agencies to find out what funding is available and call public attention to the young mothers' need.

Mrs. Massing is also anxious to hear from interested mothers. One such, Mrs. Judi Mion of 430 North Kingston St. while not a CSM student, is a young mother who is interested in continuing her schooling. She has joined efforts with Mrs. Massing to make posters calling attention to the child care center need and signing up students.

Volunteers are being sought to promote the project and help gain additional data, explain the two mothers.

Mrs. Mion, whose husband is a missile technician at the Nike installation in Pacifica, says her hope is to take interior decorating at CSM.

She explains, "Once the family is grown, I plan to return to the working world. I figure as long as I am home now, I should go to school and do what I can."

Dr. David Mertes, CSM president, is more than sympathetic. He says Child Day Care Centers are an interest in most community colleges and is one that emerges periodically at CSM.

There are two problems that must be resolved — funding and finding a location that would meet state requirements.

Dr. Mertes emphasizes, "I am very, very concerned that any kind of day center established in connection with the college have proper supervision of the children and meet all state requirements.

Skyline College Gets Art History Grant

Skyline College will receive a $17,250 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, Congressman Leo J. Ryan announced this week.

The grant will support the first year of a three-year project to produce, in Spanish and English, a series of audio-visual, tutorial modules on the history of art in The Americas. The lessons will be designed for advanced high schools, community college and community service programs.

"Richard Warren, project director, and Dr. John C. Peterson, president of Skyline College, should be commended for initiating such a worthwhile program," said the congressman.

"The Spanish-speaking community should have an opportunity to participate in studies of the arts in their own language," Ryan added. "This project will help accomplish that purpose. I support the program and look forward to positive results."

Salud Para la Gente

Health for People

By Keevin Davis and Rosemarie Herdandez

Ellie Hester has been the Family Planning Nurse Practicioner at Our Lady of Guadalupe Health Center since April 20, 1973. She is originally from Cape Cod, Mass. and came to the Bay Area 3½ years ago. He ethnic background is a mixture of Portuguese and American Indian. Elli is a member of the Wampanoag Tribe and her ancestors met the pilgrims at Plymouth Rock. Her extracurricular activities include "candlepin" bowling, badminton, and she plays some Flamenco guitar.

She began her health career in Boston, Mass., where she attended nursing school. Since graduating from nursing school she has spent five years overseas with Project Hope. Ellie served three years in Latin America, one year in Western Africa, and one year in Southeast Asia.

Ellie's duties at Guadalupe Health Center are: counseling Family Planning Patients, checking and ordering supplies, and general clinical functions. Ellie says the most satisfying parts of her job are: to have a job in which she is educating young people about themselves and their bodies. — she finds she is often explaining to them the physiological differences between men and women, and she spends a lot of time working with middle-aged people who never thought about birth control.

ELLIE DEFINES Family Planning as a process of education for people during their reproductive years, so they can decide if and when they are ready for children and how many children they want to have. When discussing the "readiness to have children" Ellie means the physical, emntal, emotional, and financial state of the parties involved.

I asked Ellie just what is the role of a Family Planning Practioner. She explained her job is to present and discuss the alternatives available to the patient. The decision, she pointed out is totally up to the individuals. Even in cases of medical complications, the final decision still rests with the patient. The basic relationship between the Family Planning Practitopmer amd -atoemt os pme pf cpimse,omg. Ellie emphasized that her main task in this relationship is to tell the individuals what is in their best interest and why, and then let the patient make a decision based on this information.

Ellie Hester ha sido la Enfermera de Servicios para Planeamiento Familiar en el Centro de Salud de Guadalupe desde el 20 de Abril de 1973. Ella es originalmente de Cape Cod, Massachusetts y vino a esta area hace 3 anos y medio. Su herencia etnica es mescla de Portugues e Indio Norteamericano. Ellie es miembra de la tribu Wampanoag y sus antepasados lesdieron la bienvenida a los primeros colonistas que llegaron a Plymouth Rock. Sus actividades extras incluyen el boliche, badminton y tambien toca un poco de guitara flemenco.

Ella empezo su carerra en servicios de salud en Boston donde asistio a la facultad de enfermeria. Despues de graduarse de esa escuela trabajo cinco anos en el extranjero con Project Hope. Ellie paso tres anos en America Latina, un ano en Africa Occidental, y un ano en Asia Sur Oriental.

La responsabilidad de Ellie en el Centro de Salud de Guadalupe es: consejos a pacientes en Planeamiento Familiar, mantener y ordenar inventorio del equipo medico, junto con responsabilidades generales en la clinica. Ellie dice que los aspectos mas agradables de su trabajo son: tener puesto en el equipa medico, junto con responsabilidades generales en la clinica. Ellie dice que los aspectos mas agradables de su trabajo son: tener puesto en el cual ella esta educandoles a jovenes adultos sobre si mismos y sobre su anatomia. Muchas veces se encuentra dando explicaciones tocante a la diferencia fisica entre hombres y mujeres, y dedica mucho tiempo trabajando con personas de mediana edad quienes nunca habian pensando en el control de natalidad.

ELLIE DEFINA el Planeamiento Familiar como un proceso de educacion. Este proceso es mas para personas en sus anos reproductivos, para que decidan si quieren tenir hijos y cuando los tengan y cuantos quieren tener. Hablando de "el tiempo apropiado de tener hijos" Ellie significa el estado fisico, mental, emocional y economico de las personas interesades.

Yo le pregunte a Ellie exactamente cual es el papel de una Enfermera de Servicios para Planeamiento Familiar? Ella explico que su responsabilidad es presentar y discutir las alternativas disponibles al paciente. La decision, ella indico, tiene que ser totalmente la responsabilidad del individuo mismo.

TN Students In Outdoor Education

More than 50 Terra Nova juniors and seniors are participating in Outdoor Education at Jones Gulch, La Honda (YMCA), as teen leaders working with sixth grade elementary students.

Robert Curley, Terra Nova Science teacher and one of the Outdoor Education coordinators, says, "Outdoor education is designed to provide the sixth graders with some knowledge of our environment, and to let them learn by living in it."

For the past four or five years, Outdoor Education has been working with the cooperation of the school district, parents and county. Although the teen leaders are not paid, Curley and Capitolo (assistant principal-counseling at TN), are trying to get class credits for the teen leaders.

"The way we go about selecting the teen-leaders is by their interest," said Curley. "An initial sign-up is done, along with a screening process. This is where I work with counselors to check up on a students' record, and make my own observations," stated Curley.

Forty to 100 sixth grade elementary students may go on one trip to Jones Gulch, and naturalists, leaders from a junior college, will also work with them.

Westlake Women Set Yule Meet

The Westlake Catholic Women will hold their Christmas meeting Dec. 17 in the parish hall after the 8 p.m. devotions to Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

Under the direction of Sister Barbara, the primary grades of Our Lady of Mercy School will present a Christmas program. Parents are invited to attend.

The ladies are asked not to forget their donation for the Christ Child Layette and the exchange of Christmas gifts. Santa will arrive early to distribute the presents.

Plans for the New Year's Eve celebration are now taking shape under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. Breslin and Charles Santuccio. Reservations can be made at the meeting.

Hostesses for the evening were announced by Mrs. Robert Drucker, hospitality chairman. Serving refreshments to all the guests and members will be Mmes. Richard Murphy, Frank McCann, Thomas O'Connor and Luciano Turchino.

Chanukah Party Set

The Brotherhood and Sisterhood of Temple Beth Israel-Judea will present their Annual Chanukah Party Dec. 16 at 12:30 p.m.

The party will take place in Fellowship Hall and will feature a Latke Feast. All will be entertained by the children of the Congregation singing with Cantor Salo Blumenthal. There will also be Magic Acts and Song Solos by members of the Congregations.

The donation for this event will be $1 for adults.

The Sisterhood of the Temple on Brotherhood Way will hold an all day bazaar Dec. 12th from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Proceeds will benefit the Religious School. For more information call Beverly Flaum at 755-1979.

Camp Girls To See Film

Charlottes Web will be the movie shown to Camp Fire girls, their friends and families in a special showing at the Serramonte VI theatre Dec. 28 at 10 p.m.

Tickets to the Christmas party showing can be obtained from Mrs. Diane Liebowick at 77 Crestline Dr.

All tickets at 60 cents will be pre-sold. Proceeds will go to the sustaining membership fund.

MORE PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION-- IS IT NEEDED ?

PARKING SPACE IS BEING LIMITED BY THE ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY.

FEDERAL, STATE, AND REGIONAL GOVERNMENTS ARE MANDATING PUBLIC TRANSIT TO REDUCE RELIANCE ON THE CAR.

GASOLINE SUPPLY IS LIMITED.

DO YOU NEED MORE PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION?

Do you need more buses? More routes? Better service coordination? Faster inter-city service? Transportation for the disabled? Provisions for bicycles?
How much would you like to spend?
How do you think countywide transportation should be organized?

SAN MATEO COUNTY HAS BEEN STUDYING PUBLIC TRANSIT.

STUDY RECOMMENDATIONS INCLUDE:

- San Mateo County should provide as much bus service as can be funded with available federal, state, and local money.
- A transit district should be formed as a means of coordinating that service.

THE SAN MATEO COUNTY TRANSIT DEVELOPMENT BOARD WILL CONSIDER THESE RECOMMENDATIONS FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14 AT 9:00 A.M., ROOM B-1, HALL OF JUSTICE AND RECORDS, REDWOOD CITY.

The Board invites your comments on the above recommendations. You may participate by forwarding your response to:

GIRL SCOUTING

CHRISTMAS LUNCHEON, tomorrow, will feature a talk on Scout religious awards by Mrs. A. B. Donovan, as well as an important election, according to Chairwoman Mrs. Margaret Connolly.

Hope Lutheran Church will be the site for the gala celebration which invites every registered adult committee member as well as troop leaders and assistants to the 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. meeting.

Mesdames Pat Knox, Jean Goodsell and Caroline Futrell will coordinate the pot luck luncheon at noon, which asks each guest to bring a small gift for exchange, not to exceed $1.

The elective procedures include delegate for the annual Council meetings and new members of the Nominating and Referral Committee which is responsible for filling Association Service Team jobs as well as appointing, with Council approval, an Association Chairwoman.

SWIMMING for Cadettes and Senior Scouts is scheduled for tomorrow from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Jefferson High School's pool, under the directorship of Mrs. Bunne Pardini.

At this age level, one adult must accompany each 12 girls for poolwatching. Senior Scout lifesavers will be provided, according to Mrs. Pardini.

Girls must bring a suit, towel, cap and green Girl Scout permission slip to gain admittance.

BROWNIES recently invested into Sue Scaduto's Troop No. 1704 include Marcia Castillo, Heidi Erler, Staci Kalman, Pauline Nona, Lee Jean Murphy and Susan Plichcik.

Holly Andrews, Diane Kemp and Jill Van Vorher rededicated themselves to Scouting at the ceremony held at Abraham Lincoln School.

LIAISONS for Daly City schools for Girl Scouting include Mesdames Gundi Feil of Columbus, Rosemary Kruger at Daniel Webster, Kathy Foley at FDR, and Rose Bologa at Garden Village.

Mesdames Ruth Lapachet at Jefferson and JFK, Shirley Figone at Lincoln-Edison, Shirley Ting at Olympia, Ginny McGowan at Vista Mar, and Ray Kuhn at Woodrow Wilson, join Donna Barnes who serves as Cadette liaison.

Bunne Pardini at Our Lady of Mercy and Ruth Lapachet at Holy Angels also serve as liaisons. Liaisons are needed for OLPH, Panorama, Crocker-Pershing, M. Pauline Brown, Vista Grande, Washington, and Westlake schools.

Yule Contest Is Cancelled

Due to the energy crisis, the Board of Directors of the Westlake Subdivisions Improvements Association will eliminate the customary annual Christmas decorations contest.

The event will be resumed as soon as the crisis situation improves, the directors announced.

The directors said they felt it was likely that homeowners will curtail Christmas lighting this year.

Nick Gust's Restaurants Just 15 Minutes Away

A phone call yesterday from Nick Gust to remind us to remind you that his Rockaway Beach restaurants, The Moonraker, Captain Charles, and Nick's, are just 15 minutes from San Mateo and way points. Dine and enjoy life without checking your gas tank, as well as your pocketbook. Live it up under the Gust roofs — plan now to spend the Holidays here . . . Announcement from George Mardikian: "This will be the first time in forty-three years that Omar Khayyam's restaurant in San Francisco will not be open seven days a week. Because of the energy crisis, and in order to comply with the request made by the President of the United States, that all Americans make every effort to conserve fuel, Omar Khayyam's will be closed on each and every Sunday, starting with Sunday, December 9, 1973." After dining here, you will want to try your hand at Armenian cooking with recipes from George Mardikian's book, "Dinner at Omar Khayyam's," published by Utah Printing Co. . . . Cold winter weather is definitely ideal for hot soup. So that probably explains the run on take-out soup orders at The Shadows of San Mateo. As everyone knows, this restaurant is justly famed for its variety of soups. Executive Chef Peter Selaya could (if he wanted to) make a fortune selling the recipes.

MESMERIZES AUDIENCES — Marlene Dietrich will appear in two shows nightly (except Monday) in the Fairmont Hotel's Venetian Room, through December 16. The legendary star of screen, television and the concert stage is best known today as one of the world's most superb cabaret artists. Her sultry voice and timeless loveliness have attracted admirers from around the world to see her performances.

102ND INSTALLATION of officers of San Mateo Lodge 226 F & A.M. will be held Saturday Dec. 15 at 8 p.m. at the San Mateo Masonic Temple. Above are Philip Munson, standing as master, and seated George Dress, senior warden and Richard Hansen, junior warden. Other officers are Ollie L. Guinn, treasurer; and Jack T. Estoll, p.m. secretary. The appointed officers are Herbert Davies, P.M., chaplain; Norris Allen, senior deacon; George Stokes, junior deacon; Robert Thurber, marshal; Robert Spear, senior steward; Irwin Barth, junior steward; Edward Mitchell, organist; and James Whitney, tiler.

Phil Lehr's Holiday Gift Certificates

Gift certificates from Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco, are a much-appreciated Christmas gift for family, friends and business associates. Available in any amount, they're the one gift that's never exchanged . . . The weekends are becoming more and more exciting at Scotty Campbell's. Stars performing at nearby Circle Star Theater, as well as the Hillbarn Theater in Foster City, are seen frequently dining at this charming Peninsula restaurant. One recent evening co-owner-hostess Mary Lou Fox enjoyed an interesting conversation with seven gentlemen connected with Scotland Yard, London, England . . . The very French Place Pigalle, located in the residential Marina district, has a setting of scenic charm and appeal. Murals in the graphic style of Toulouse Lautrec adorn the handsome main dining room. The smaller dining room wears the air of an old Parisian Wine cellar with its huge casks . . . Jovanelo's restaurant is recognized as one of San Francisco's landmarks of good food. Co-owner Joe Piccinini is a master chef, and Maitre d' Nello Piccinini is a familiar face to all.

Menlo Park Neighbors Vs. Little League

Six families residing in the 100 block of Felton Drive in Menlo Park filed suit in San Mateo County Superior Court Friday seeking an order to prohibit the Menlo Park School District from permitting the playing of Little League baseball on the adjacent property of Encinal School in Atherton.

The complaint, filed by attorney Edward V. Pollack of San Francisco, contends that Little League baseball creates noise, poses a safety hazard and prohibits peaceful use of their property by the plaintiffs.

It also asserts that use of the school field by the Atherton Little League permits trespass and vandalism of the plaintiffs' property and subjects the plaintiffs to "unreasonable risk of personal injury from flying balls," as well as posing problems of broken windows and fences and damaged shrubbery.

The suit says that the plaintiffs notified the school district of their concerns Oct. 23, but that the district refused to order a stop to use of the school grounds for Little League baseball.

It is contended by the plaintiffs that there has been a loss in property values totaling $5,000. They ask a total of $3,000 punitive damages, as well as a permanent injunction prohibiting Little League use of the school grounds.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Ivan C. and Gave Odom, Margaret Moltzen, Nell S. Long, Jane L. Andrews, Dr. Karl and Jean Peterson, and Evenln P. Bennett.

Pair Escape R.C. Fire

The occupant of a 16-unit apartment at 44 Renato Court in Redwood City and a friend were almost overcome by heat and smoke as they attempted to put out a fire in a top floor unit.

Flames and smoke were rolling out onto a balcony from an apartment of Leonard Mavers, 34, in the Renato Oaks Apartment at 1:25 p.m., according to firemen.

Meyers and two friends tried to put out the fire with a hose from a hallway, but were unsuccessful.

Firemen were able to control the fire in about 10 minutes, but were Fire Chief John Keller said the fire Fire Chief John Keller said the fire may have been started by magazines stacked near a wall heater.

Le Pacini

S.F. State

"We'll probably get creamed in early season, as usual, but we'll be league contenders, eventually."

So says John Hansen, Sports Information Director of the San Francisco State University basketball team. And he might have added an "as usual" to the latter part of that quote, too, because the Gators have taken seven Far Western Conference titles since their first one in 1954, and have almost always been contenders in the "off" years.

Why do the Gators nearly always turn their season around in its latter stages? There are several reasons, most of them establishing themselves in the late '50's, when the Gators began scheduling their early season mostly on the road against good major schgols and ranked college division teams, complete with 7-foot centers (as opposed to State's standard 6-5 pivot man). The Gators, in other words, have for about the past 15 years been playing one of the roughest schedules in the country for a non-scholarship, college division team.

Hansen notes that the Gators "may have reached a new high in masochism this year," pointing out that in its annual basketball issue Sports Illustrated has listed when it considers the five worst places for a visiting team to play. San Francisco State has two of them scheduled for early season. State, in fact, plays only eight of its 27 games at home this year.

ONCE STATE finishes its early road schedule, Hansen thinks they may even be better than usual in the late stages because second-year coach Lyle Damon has gathered together one of the biggest State teams in recent years.

The Gators have eight players ranging from 6-4 to 6-6, and their total roster averages slightly above 6-3. Now, that might not seem like much to a lot of basketball teams, but to the Gators, it's BIG. And if they've been able to win with less height in the past, the extra inches can only portend for good.

S. F. State will be hoping to improve its 9-17 record of last year with a front line of senior Bill Drew (6-4, last year's FWC field goal percentage leader), Jim Slater (6-5), a Grossmont JC transfer), Darrell Jackson, a strong 6-4 S.F. City College transfer, senior Steve Flaherty, who isn't big (6-2) but can score, a very rugged Allain Singleton, Allan Hancockje, at 6-6 and 210 the biggest man on the squad.

An added sleeper might be Jeff Welleveyr, a Terra Nova High grad and Skyline College transfer who is 6-4 and weighs in at 205, is very tough and just the kind of hatchet man the Gators usually lack. He has some talent, too, being last year's leading scorer and MPVP at Skyline. He was the first player at Terra Nova to be named MVP for three consecutive years.

A COUPLE of members of State's fine frosh squad, Jimmy Turner (6-6), from Castlemont High, and Jeff Spraguei(6-5), from Concord, should see action later in the year.

The little guys will be sophomore Steve Pasero (5-10), who helped guide Sacred Heart to a Central Coast Section championship two years ago and last year led the JV's in scoring 20 point average, and Muggs Mulligan, a Detroit kid via Anza JC who has been scoring well in early season.

Two other promising freshmen are forward John Pachetti (6-3) from Riordan and guard Kevin Caston (6-1) from Fresno's San Joaquin Memorial. Pachetti was the MVP in last year's Central Coast Section playoffs, won by Riordan, while Caston scored over 400 points last season as Memorial won its second straight Tournament of Champions title.

And now you might be asking yourself whether or not the Gators are in truth masochists. WHY do they play so many games on the road? WHY do they play such a tough early season schedule?

That, fans, is purely economics. The Gators draw like crazy on the road. Away from home they've played to crowds of 10,000 and more. At home, some nights they're lucky to draw 100. One of the reasons they draw so well is that anybody would draw well in some of the basketball-crazy Midwest towns they play. One of the reasons is that the name "San Francisco" is magic to Midwesterners and Easterners. And we have a strong hunch — and probably no official at State would ever admit to it — that, because the crowds have apparently increased since 1969, the year of the notorious and nationally publicized campus student strike, many fans way back there show up because of the EYES FRONT, PLEASE — Two players in this tableau know where the ball went, and two are still watching the mysterious place from whence it came — the ball's moving a lot faster than the cagers in this 38-37 El Camino win over Sacred Heart's Irish in the Jefferson Classic Friday. The El Camino players are (left to right): Barry Nagel (23), John Christman (12) and Mike Jiggetts. The lone Irish man is Daryl Burns (31).

El Camino Remains Unbeaten

Colt Defense Dumps Irish

El Camino High, a preseason favorite in the North Peninsula League basketball race, remained unbeaten and polished its image Friday with a 38-37 win over Sacred Heart in the Jefferson Classic.

In the other game of the doubleheader Placer beat Jefferson 74-55.

El Camino (2-0) shone in the first six minutes and the last six minutes — what came in between was less than memorable.

The Colts hit their first eight shots against Sacred Heart's zone in that first six minutes, but led only 16-9. Then they went cold, and weren't able to put the game away. With four minutes left in the half, Sacred Heart fought back to an 18-18 tie, then took control.

El Camino couldn't score for the first three minutes of the second half and trailed at the beginning of the fourth quarter, 35-24.

But the Colts were able to do something then that few teams are ever able to do — they rattled the Irish with a full-court press. Five straight times Sacred Heart failed to get past midcourt against the aggressive El Camino defense.

With 1:48 left in the game Colt John Christman took an offensive rebound, made the follow shot and was fouled. He canned the free throw to bring El Camino within one, 37-36.

Sacred Heart was charged with walking. El Camino worked the clock down to 25 seconds, when Jim Bisordi hit a top-of-the-key jumper, giving El Camino the lead for the first time since the early going.

Sacred Heart worked the ball down for the last shot, but a pass aimed for a man cutting for the basket sailed out of bounds to kill any threat.

Bisordi led Camino scorers with 11.

Jefferson had a moderately successful second half, but was never really in the game. Ron Sylvia led the Indians with 12, Wilbur Derbigny had 11 and Erich Haynes had ten.

Rough Weekend For NPL Cagers

It was a rough weekend for North Peninsula League basketball teams — El Camino and Jefferson lost both ends of the Jefferson Classic doubleheader Saturday night and South San Francisco was bombed at Petaluma. All the losses came by more than 20 points.

Sacred Heart whipped winless Jefferson 55-33; Terry Richard was the only Indian in double figures, with 11.

Placer handed El Camino its first loss, 55-32. It was a strange game; both teams insisted on throwing the ball away continually. El Camino missed seven shots from five feet or closer in the first quarter.

No Colt made double figures, but Jim Bisordi was named to the All-Classic team.

Petaluma topped South S.F. 85-60 in a freewheeling run-and-shoot contest. Unbeaten Petaluma plays the same kind of game as the Warriors — only Petaluma does it with a front line measuring 6-5, 6-5, 6-4. Rebounding made the whole difference.

Rolfe Athearn led Warrior scoring with 25 points.

Padres Edge Buchser

Serra High never really took control until the fourth quarter, but the Padres preserved their perfect cage record last night with a 70-58 win at Buchser in San Jose.

Buzz Harnett, the Padres' 6-6 senior forward, blocked six shots in the first quarter, thereby dissuading Buchser from driving the middle.

Harnett also had 19 rebounds for the game; his boardwork in the fourth quarter was instrumental in the Padre breakaway.

Serra coach Pete Newell praised the backcourt work of senior guard Jim Doherty, who didn't have much game experience last year.

Bulldog Cagers Are Definitely Real

The Bulldogs are definitely for real.

Bobby Pounds' exciting basketball team went up against its best opponent of the young year Saturday night on the hilltop and came out on top over DeAnza, 69-64.

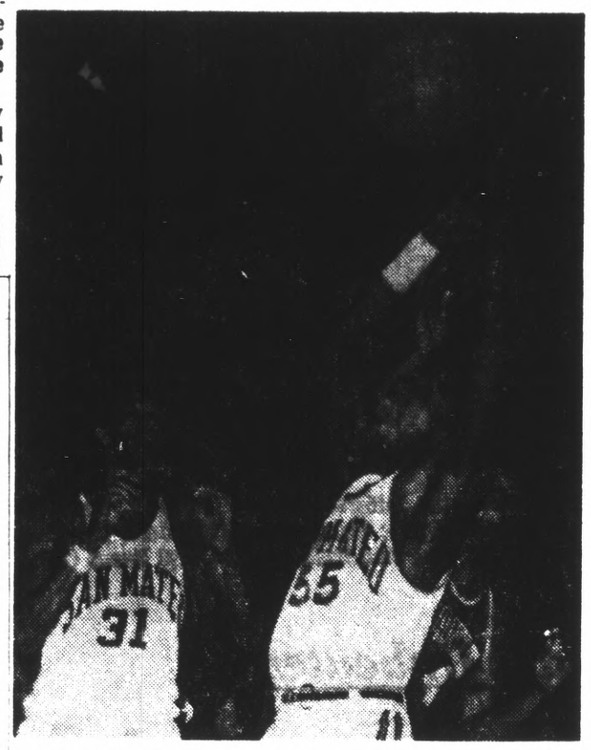
The Dogs (6-1) continue to play better every time out and showed no signs of playing dead after losing a controversial decision to Foothill by two Friday night.

For the second straight game, Pounds was without the services of starting guard Howard Trotter. Trotter missed the Foothill game and appeared at the game just before halftime. He suited up but didn't play.

"Even though he's my starting guard," said Pounds, "I wasn't gonna mess with the lineup the way we were going."

Ron Doss took Trotter's spot in the backcourt and Charles Anderson was at forward in place of Hollister Savidge.

Anderson, a big burly type from Portland, played very well against Foothill and helped on the boards against De Anza.



WAITING GAME—Craig Nance (31), College of San Mateo's 6-6 forward, waits for the ball to come to him after being batted his way by teammate Tony Williams (55) in game against DeAnza Saturday night. CSM won, 69-64. (Post Photo by John Storey)

San Mateo didn't even need Trotter as vets Bobby Wright and Craig Nance hitched up their belts and did a job on the Dons.

Wright had one of his best games as a Bulldog. He hit on 13 of 16 from the floor (only one layup) including four of four in the last half to end up with 28.

Nance boxed the Dons off the board well and contributed 15 tallies. Tony Williams, a 6-6 jumping jack who goaltended three times, added 18, including a slam dunk which brought the good-sized crowd out of their seats.

De Anza led only one, at 28-27, with 3:30 left in the first half, but Savidge hit a bucket then to put CSM back on top for good.

Both teams burned the hoops. CSM shot hit on 30 of 57 from the floor and De Anza 30 of 59, both over 50 per cent.

Pounds had his team in a zone for the entire game, and it forced the Dons to take outside shots, something they liked. DA only shot six free throws for the game.

Mitch Plaat led De Anza with 18; Warren Jackson, out of Silver Creek High, pumped in 16.

DE ANZA: Jackson 8-0-16; Lewis 3-0-6; Dickerson 4-0-8; Plaat 8-2-18; Carlson 0-2-2; Perry 5-0-10; Gregory 2-0-4. Totals 30-4-64.

SAN MATEO: Nance 6-3-15; Anderson 1-2-4; Wright 13-2-28; Doss 1-0-2; Williams 8-21-18; Savidge 1-0-2; Totals: 30-9-69.

Halftime score: San Mateo 35, De Anza 34.

Jeff Hi Girls Take a First

With strong tumbling stunts and bar routines, the Jefferson High School Girls finished first in the recent NPL gymnastics finals. Half Moon Bay came in second and Terra Nova finished third.

All around winner (competing in all four events) was Jeff's Denise Miller, who also placed in the pole vault in the advanced division. Jeff's Marian Denius came in second in advanced all-around honors and placed in the bars and free exercise.

Virginia Corden of Jeff placed in the balance beam, also advanced. In the Hi Intermediate category, first place was won by Rosie Lindsey of Jefferson in the all-around; Loretta McDougall, Terra Nova, balance beam; Rosie Lindsey of Jefferson in the bars and vault, and Jacqui Magill of Half Moon Bay in the free form.

Intermediates placing included Buffy Wood and Shelly Henderson of Half Moon Bay, Pauline Wesley of South San Francisco, Nancy Hill and Bonnie Cook of Terra Nova and Elaine ablate of Jefferson.

Beginners placing included Cindy Bryan of Hal Moon Bay, Debbie Ludwig of South San Francisco, Kathy Slevin, Half Moon Bay, Charlotte Sharp of Terra Nova and Ramona Rolle of Jefferson.

Terra Nova, Jefferson, Half Moon Bay, Serramonte, and South San Francisco all competed at the event held at Jefferson.

The championship Jefferson team is composed of advanced girls Denise Miller, Marian Denius and Virginia Corden. Rosa Garcia of Serramonte also participated in the aerial moves.

Elaine Pablate, Ramona Rolle, Cindy Chan, Rosie Lindsey, Julie Rodriquez, Louise Schurr and Renee Rolle are strong competitors according to their coach Mrs. Nancy Jermaine.

.....Mrs. Jermaine lives in Daly City with her husband, ex-football pro, "Big Max" Jermaine and received her original training in Manteca.

curiosity factor. Maybe they expect to see a good, old fashioned riot.

WHEN FRED Apostoli died suddenly last week, one of San Francisco's most popular prize fighters — and one of its all-time best — also died.

Apostoli, who held the New York version of the middleweight title from 1938-39, fought all of the very best of his era, and lost only 10 fights in an active 11 year career producing 72 fights. He lost to only the best, too. He was KO'd by Freddie Steele in 10 rounds (it was Fred's first pro fight and Steele was middleweight champion a year later); lost a decision to Ken Overlin, who went on to the title; lost a decision to Young Corbett, who had been welterweight champ; lost two decisions to Billy Conn, who was light-heavyweight champ and almost heavyweight champ; was knocked out in 12 by Melio Bettina, who a year later was light-heavy champ; was knocked out in seven by Ceferino Garcia (that's when Apostoli lost his title); lost a decision to coming middleweight champ Tony Zale; was knocked out freakishly in one by local Bobby Volk and lost a decision to Earl Turner (it was Fred's last fight and, typically, against a tough opponent.)

Thus, all of Apostoli's losing fights except his last two were against champs, and, ironically, Turner may have been the best of them all. Many considered him an uncrowned champ.

Fred also knocked out Volk in three, decisioned Turner, knocked Steele out in nine; drew with Overlin; knocked Corbett out in eight in a title defense, and decisioned Bettina.

Aside from such as Steele, Bettina, and Corbett, he whipped Newsboy Millich, Lou Brouillard, Solly Krieger, Marcel Thiel, Glen Lee, and George Abrams, all titleholders or topnotch contenders in their time. Some of them he beat more than once.

THE LAST time we saw Apostoli was in February, at the anniversary of the Young Corbett-Jackie Fields middleweight championship fight.

Fred was reminiscing with an old grammar school buddy, when somebody else in the crowd asked where he went to high school.

"High school?" Freddie replied incredulously. "Are you kiddin'? The day I graduate from junior high, I say to my father, 'I'm goin' to Galileo,' and he says, 'You're goin' to work,' so the next day I'm a hod carrier and I'm so tired when I get home nights, I don't even eat. I go right to bed."

The buddy suggested that carrying hods might have been a blessing in disguise, since the work evidently had built him up and was probably an aid to his boxing career. "The hard work was probably worth it, Freddie."

Apostoli pondered the theory thoughtfully, and then replied, "I'm not so sure. You ever carry a hod?"

ODDS 'N ENDS: Warrior sleeper rookie Derrek Dickey is now third on the team in rebounds, averaging about 20 rebounds every 48 minutes (Thurmond is averaging about 17 per 48, Lee about 19). . . .

TERRA NOVA'S Reg Pomicpic had to be the most versatile and durable football player in the NPL this year. At various times he played wide receiver, quarterback, corner back, safety, and he punted, returned punts and kickoffs, played every quarter of every game, and played every second of two games. (Last year he was an all-league baseball catcher, specializing in defense and hitting .400.)

Pinky Smith, the former Jefferson baseball-basketball - football whiz, was the best San Diego State university player on the floor in their recent loss to USF; scored 19 pounds, rebounded. His sophomore brother, Kenny, also played but gathered three fouls in the first few minutes, so didn't get much of a chance to display his talent.

Another Jeff grad, first baseman Tolia Solaita, has been drafted out of the minors by Kansas City.

Jesse Freitas has finally beat out Mike Boryla. He left Stanford for San Diego State to get from under Boryla's shadow, led the nation in passing but was snubbed by the Shrine Game selection committee in favor of Boryla. But he's now been named to the third team of the AP All-America. Boryla got only honorable mention.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

This week we will continue with the Christmas cookie baking plans. These first two recipes go nicely together since one uses three egg whites and the other, three egg yolks.

MARGY'S ALMOND SNOW CAP COOKIES

- ¾ cup each margarine and powdered sugar
- 1½ cups flour
- ¾ cup raspberry jam
- 3 egg whites
- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ cup flaked coconut
- 1 cup sliced almonds

Cream three-fourths cup each margarine and powdered sugar. Blend in the one and one-half cups flour. Press into bottom of ungreased 9x13x2-inch pan. Bake in 350-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes.

Spread the three-fourths cup raspberry jam over top of hot baked cake.

Beat the three egg whites till foamy. Beat in the three-fourths cup sugar, a tablespoon at a time. Continue beating until stiff and glossy. DO NOT UNDERBEAT. Fold in the one-half cup coconut and one-half cup of the sliced almonds. (Reserving rest of almonds for topping.) Spread over jam. Sprinkle with remaining half cup almonds. Bake 20 minutes longer. Cool. Cut into squares about 1½-inches. Store in air tight container. Makes about 4 dozen.

HOLIDAY "BILLY GOATS"

- 1 cup margarine
- 1½ cups sugar
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 tablespoons sour milk
- 2½ cups flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon each soda and cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- 1½ cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup chopped dates

Cream the one cup margarine and one and one-half cups sugar well; add the three egg yolks and one teaspoon vanilla. Beat well. Sift the two and one-half cups flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon each soda and cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoon cloves and add to creamed mixture with the two tablespoons sour milk. Blend well by hand. Add the one and one-half cups walnuts and one cup chopped dates. Mix well. (This makes a very stiff dough.) Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls onto lightly greased cookie sheet, one inch apart. Bake 325-degree oven for 15 minutes. Makes about 6 dozen.

THERE'S AN old show-biz line that goes, "In response to many requests I'd like to repeat an old favorite. . . ." Then the entertainer sings a song that is a favorite of his. Well, that's just about how it is with this next recipe, except that I really have had requests to repeat it. Potato chip cookies are unusual and exceptionally delicious.

POTATO CHIP COOKIES

- 1 pound margarine
- 1¼ cups sugar
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 3½ cups flour
- 1½ cups crushed potato chips

Blend the one pound margarine, one and one-fourth cups sugar and two teaspoons vanilla. Cream very well. Next blend in the three and one-half cups flour and finally work in the one and one-half cups potato chips. The dough will be very firm. Drop by rounded teaspoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in 350-degree oven 12 to 15 minutes. Remove from sheet, sprinkle with powdered sugar. Makes 8 dozen.

Camp Girls Set Up Gift Wrap Booth

Camp Fire Girls are manning a gift wrap booth in the Serramonte Mall near Mervyns now through Christmas.

Proceeds will go to support the council and the many activities it offers girls.

Leaders, assistants and mothers of girls are working in three hour shifts. There are still some time slots with openings to be filled so persons who have not signed up may contact the Camp Fire office.

The booth will be open from 9:30 to 9:30 daily through Christmas.

Planetarium Show Planned

College of San Mateo's traditional holiday planetarium show, "A Christmas Carol," will be presented Dec. 6 and 13, with a new added feature.

The extra attraction this year will be singing by the College Choraliers, under the direction of Galen Marshall, to augment the recreation of the constellations of the Christmas skies on the planetarium dome.

Admission is free.

'We Need Concerted Program'

Ryan Sees 60-Cent Gasoline

By JOHN CURRY
Staff Writer

San Mateo County's ranking energy researcher at the moment is Congressman Leo J. Ryan (D-San Mateo) who says to expect 60-cent a gallon gasoline in two years, but as for the Christmas lights this year, "Go ahead and light them."

Ryan, in an interview last week said, "We would have $1 gasoline right quick if President Nixon follows his advisors' idea of a heavy tax. I favor rationing but the right kind of rationing. The big tax is only a burden on lower-income people while the rich folks can buy as much as they need."

As for electrical usage cutbacks at home. "I'm as flatly critical of the administration as as I can be." Ryan said. "Cutting the 2,400 Christmas lights to 1,200 at the White House will save $1.50, but they're making a great show of that."

Ryan toured the Middle East last month for the House Foreign Affairs Committee and can talk for hours about the oil situation because he heard about it first-hand.

"I'm convinced we need some concerted program like the Manhattan Project of World War II or the NASA program of the 1960s that will bring new sources of energy as soon as possible," he freshman congressman said.

SOLAR and nuclear energy would be potential answers, but Ryan added that undersea exploration should be ajlnother. "Two-thirds of the earth's surface is under water. Where is there another Saudi Arabian oil field down there that will get us off the hood?"

He added that "I'm told there's nothing under the oceans that can't be explored, in theory, but there is work still to be done on the technology.

"We need to get off shis short-range panic stuff," he said of present energy conservation pleas by the government, such as turning down of thermostats and 50 mile-an-hour speed limits "We can ask the American People to do this only for two winters," he noted.

RYAN voted for the Alaska pipeline and also toured its route this year. He said now it's behind schedule.

He said he wouldn't cut out Congressional "fact-finding" trips. "If I had my way, every member of Congress would be required to make the trip I made whether he wanted to or not."

The word "junket" suggests fun along the way, which wasn't the case, Ryan inissted. Three of his nine nights in the Mideast were spent flying to the next capital and it was "really no damn fun, although rewarding when you put it all together. All I saw of the pyramids was from the sindow as the plane landed in Cairo."

As for the Arab nations' militance toward Israel and oil embargoes to the outside world, Ryan said he thought this was "80 per cent more rhetoric than reality." The Arab-Israeli peace takls will progress because "both sides are old hands at being rug merchants," he said.

THERE WOULD have been a Middle East oil cutback whether or not there had been a war now, Ryan went on, because the U.S.-educated Arab leaders (UCLA, USC, Harvard, etc.) "realize their oil is the one thing that'll get them out of the desert and the sand out of their shoes."

The cutback brings higher prices and extends the life of the fields, particularly the Saudi Arabian fields, where most of the oil is, Ryan said. Experts have said these will last only another 30 years and will play out, much as the Texas fields are doing now.

'Free Throw Contest' Set In SSF

The South San Francisco Parks and Recreation Department and the Grand Lodge Order of Elks will present the "Elks National Free Throw Contest" Dec. 15 at 10:30 a.m. at the South San Francisco High School, Boys Gymnasium.

The contest is open to South San Francisco residents only and include the following ages: Boys and Girls 8-9 yrs. old; Boys and Girls 10-11 yrs. old, and Boys and Girls 12-13 yrs. old. Participants may sign up at their local playground.

Registration forms are also available at the Parks and Recreation office. Youngsters may also register on the day of the event.

Prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third winners. Winners from each division will proceed to the area finals at Skyline College, Jan. 5.

Pacifica Promotion Plan Told

The Pacifica Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors Dec. 5 authorized a new committee to work out a community promotion to encourage hometown shopping.

Spearheading the committee will be director Milt Holmes. He expects to have a plan ready for presentation by mid-January.

Chamber Mgr. Tom Sawyer said the program will stress service.

"We cannot compete on the basis of price or quantity," Sawyer said, "but we sure can compete in service, and we intend to let our people know about it."

Because this is the busy time for the merchant members, there will be no meeting of the chamber for December, Sawyer said.

Meanwhile, he planned to take part in last week's hearing at the San Francisco Hyatt Regency Hotel by the Environmental Protection Agency on its new parking regulations, under which owners of large parking lots will pay $450 a year per space.

He and several chamber directors plan to enter their protests to the regulations.

Skyline Sets Fifth Annual Winter Show

Two consecutive nights of live music will highlight Skyline College's fifth annual Christmas-Winter Show.

Dec. 12 the Symphonic Band will perform in the main theater, while the following evening the SC Chamber Music Concert will take place in the studio theater. Both shows will begin at 8 p.m.

Prices for the band concert will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, and the cost for the quartet show will be $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students.

Included in the concert on Wednesday evening will be a series of brass and trombone ensembles and five songs which the full band will play will include Suite in E flat by Gustav Holst and the Overture in B flat by Caesar Giovannini.

Brahms and Schubert compositions will be featured in the chamber music presentation with Skyline College piano instructor Noel Benkman performing.

Pacifica Votes Funds; Election Slated

The Pacifica City Council this week spent more money on more projects than ever before.

The council voted to appropriate $769,697 for eight items.

Added to previous action, it thus authorized expenditure of the city's entire amount of federal revenue sharing funds, totalling $1,122,360 when the five-year revenue-sharing program is completed in 1975.

A third ballot measure would be one to increase pay of city employes for 1974-76. Councilmen Stan Farber who introduced the motion, explained that he did not think that the badly beaten pay increase measure on the November ballot, was explained adequately to the electorate.

Sharp clashes among councilmen, members of the Capital Improvements Committee, and audience members accompanied discussion of many items, as the council discussed priorities.

In the preliminary study for the revenue sharing program, $26 million worth of needed projects were included.

The council settled on: Linda Mar firehouse, $350,000; Fairmont Park West, $9,000; Fairway Park ball diamond, $15,750; Sanchez School grounds, $20,000; San Andreas School grounds, $10,000; Pedro Valley School grounds, $20,000; $150,000 for Frontierland Park, with the remaining $179,947 to be held for special needs.

The major debate of the evening took place over Frontierland Park vs. Oceana High School pool.

Farber at first proposed a bond issue, to include $350,000 each for the pool and for the park.

"Then we can take the rest of the money and use it for projects which are badly needed," he said.

The motion failed to gain support after Mayor Aubrey Lumley said he was reluctant to ask for a tax increase when the city had money to pay for one of the projects.

Farber then proposed spending the remaining money, $329,947, "to finish the park and get it off our agenda." (Farber has voted consistently against the park in past meetings.) With Lumley expressing doubt that this sum would finish the park, the motion died for lack of a second.

The council eventually voted $150,000 to build the second phase of the park. Hope was expressed that the state park bond measure, slated for the June ballot, would provide funds to complete the park, although Virginia Henkle, Pacifica's representative on the county-wide advisory committee on the bond issue, said she doubted that the bond would help Pacifica the way the last two meetings have gone.

Driver Dies

Orrin Chester Butler, 49, driver of an airport parking lot shuttle bus, died on his job Dec. 5 after an apparent heart attack.

Butler, a resident of 67 Norwood Drive, Daly City, was found in his stalled bus, in a parking lot entrance near the Airport Standard Station at about 4 a.m.

Pacifica Debate

Nepotism Ban Retained

An attempt to overthrow Pacifica's nepotism ordinance failed on a 3-2 city council vote Monday — but not before considerable heat was generated.

But it removed the Youth Advisory Commission from its provisions.

The matter had been brought up at the request of Virginia Jaeger, a candidate for city council and mother of park employe John Jaeger.

Councilman Stan Farber, who had made the motion for repeal of subsection C of the ordinance, declared his resentment that "my daughter cannot serve on the Youth Advisory Commission — whether she wants to or not . . . I think it's a rotten rule and that it should be stricken."

Mayor Aubrey Lumley agreed that the rule was antiquated.

"Anybody with the integrity to sit up here," he declared, "would have the integrity to step down when a conflict-of-interest comes up."

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy, however, said the rule has prevented much pettiness, "avoiding all kinds of problems occurring by hiring of relatives."

City Mgr. David Thompson took one of his rare stands on controversial council matters. He said that it is "difficult for the city manager to act with equanimity if a son or a daughter of a councilman is involved in disciplinary action. It would create problems for the city manager."

Farber explained that he approved of the first two sections of the ordinance — banning a city employe from serving "in any supervisory capacity over any other member of the same family" and banning more than one member of any family from being employed in any one city division.

Section C, which he opposed, however, says "In the case of any elected city official, or any city council appointed board or commission member, department head or any other city official, no one member of such person's family shall be employed by the city in a permanent position."

After Farber's move to repeal that paragraph failed by a 3-2 vote, Councilman Harland Minshew moved to except the Youth Advisory Commission from the ordinance. The council approved the motion, 4-1, over Farber's opposition.

"Why is the YAC being excepted?" he asked. "Is it because I complained that my daughter couldn't serve on it? I retract my complaint. I wouldn't let her apply anyway."

Despite his protests, the vote stood.

There was agreement on a proposal by Mrs. McCarthy to invite candidates for City Council to a session in which procedures of city government would be explained. Emory Lebonville of Moana Way asked that non-candidates be allowed to attend as well.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Jaeger showed no signs of withdrawing from the council race. She said it was not clear that the ordinance applied to her, since her son already was employed.

She saw no more possibility of conflict of interest in her case "than for any other councilman who must step down when his interest is under discussion. "If they want to fire him, on my election, let them do it," she declared.

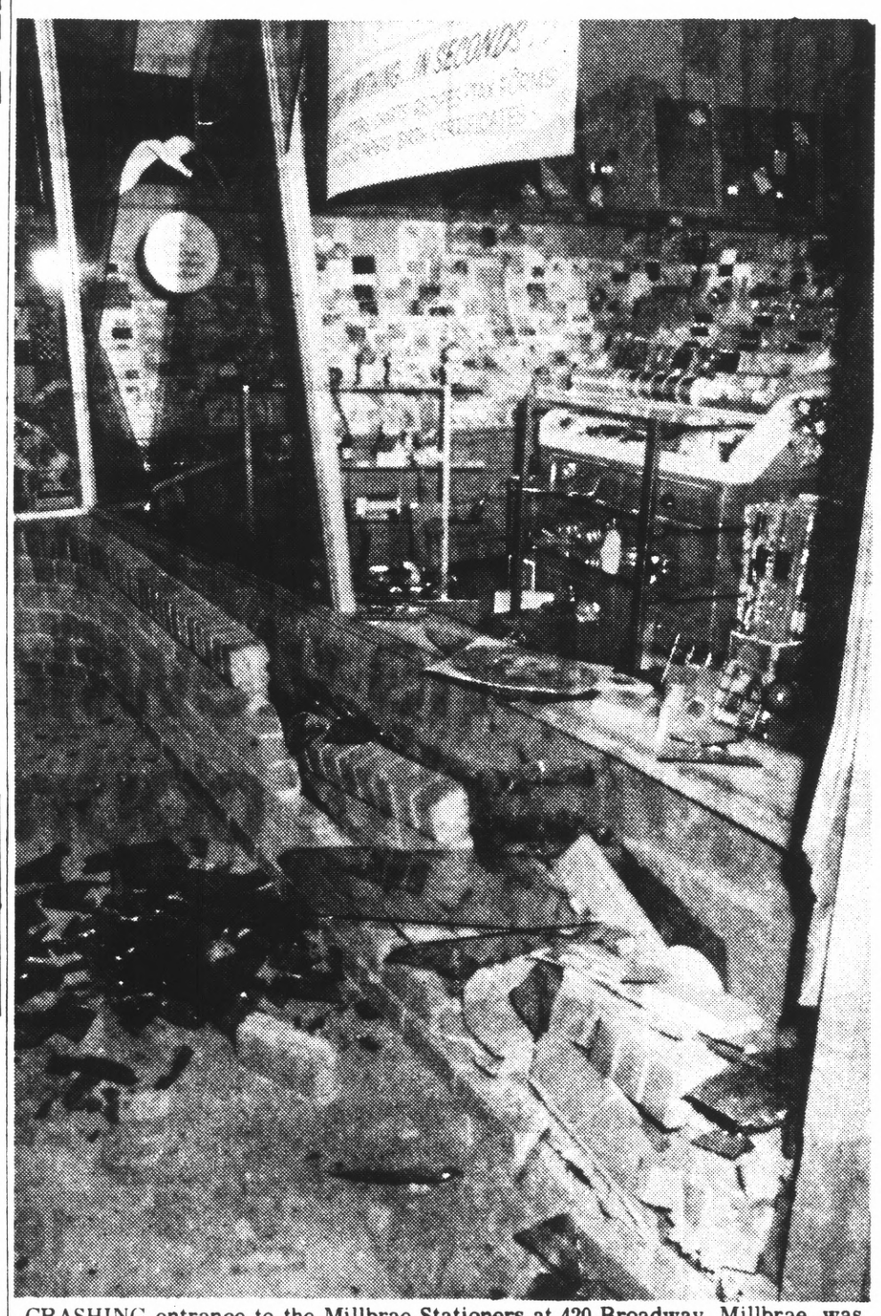
SSF Mulls Offer For School Site

Trustees of the South San Francisco Unified School District may consider selling part of an elementary school site, possibly benefiting the district and lowering the tax rate.

At a district board meeting Monday, a representative of the Guy F. Atkinson construction firm requested that the trustees consider sale of about 13 of the 23-acre Serra Vista School site.



CRASHING entrance to the Millbrae Stationers at 420 Broadway, Millbrae, was made Thursday just before midnight by a car police say was driven by Eugene J. Weatherington, 222 Grand Ave., South San Francisco. Police arrested Weatherington on a charge of drunken driving. (Times Photo)

The representative, Dean Comstock, asked that the trustees consider putting the land up for sale so that Atkinson could bid on the acreage.

He said his company needs the land, from which about 200,000 cubic yards of fill would be taken to complete work his company is doing on the Highway 101, Highway 380 interchange in San Bruno.

According to Comstock, the Serra Vista School facility sits on less than 10 acres of its 23-acre site. He proposed that if bids were opened and Atkinson was awarded the sale, an agreement be drawn up whereby Atkinson would promise to improve the school site. This would include repairing damage done to the school facilities during removal of the fill, including that to playgrounds, the landscape and perhaps pipelines.

Comstock estimated that school improvements could cost Atkinson as much as $250,000. He said the 13 acres is worth anywhere from $260,000 and up.

"This would be a big saving for the taxpayers," Comstock told the trustees.

The engineer said if Atkinson acquires the property, work in the area will begin after school recesses for the summer and be completed before students return in September.

He also explained after the meeting that if trustees decide to open the land up for bids, Atkinson would be bidding against at least two other construction firms, which he said he knew were interested in the acreage. He emphasized there was no guarantee Atkinson would be awarded the sale.

Trustees did not comment on the proposal, Board Chairman Leo Padreddi said the trustees would consider the proposal at their next regular meeting.

In other action, trustees:

—Approved three proposed student field trips — one for 30 students and three teachers from Alta Loma Junior High School to visit the State Capitol Jan. 15; 32 El Camino High School students and four science teachers to tour California, Arizona, Utah and Nevada April 4 through 14; and 20 students and two supervisors to visit Italy March 29 to April 21.

It was pointed out that students traveling out of state and abroad would pay their own way, and that the district would lose no average daily attendance funds.

—Approved the formation of a District Secondary Education Advisory Committee, composed of parents, teachers, administrators, community members and students to advise the Board regarding goals of the seventh through twelfth grade education program.

—Agreed to put to bid repair of the bleachers at Clifford Field.

—Agreed to allow a swimming team to use the South San Francisco High School pool Monday through Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. for a rental fee of $100 per month.

10 at First Night Court

Ten traffic violators showed up in the first night traffic court conducted last night in the San Mateo Central District Municipal Court. Referee Norman J. Gatzert II, a private attorney, presided.

Of the 10, six were working women.

Six men and women pleaded not guilty. Two of that number were found not guilty. The rest were sent to traffic school.

Four who pleaded not guilty found themselves fined, sent to traffic school, or had their cases dismissed for lack of needed data.

All of the 10 were "delighted," at least insofar as not being required to take time off from their jobs, according to Municipal Court Clerk Helen Prara.

The next night court is scheduled for tomorrow, starting at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Prara explained that those who want to go to night court with traffic citations cannot just walk in. They must post bail at least 36 hours prior to the hearing date and specifically request to go to night court.

Those who send in their bail and wish to appear are asked to specify "night court" on the face of the envelope containing the bail.

The reason for posting bail prior to appearance is to cover court costs. Otherwise, Mrs. Prara explained, she would have to have two clerks and a security officer on duty. Individuals found not guilty have bail returned, except for 50 cents per $20, which goes to cover night court costs.

Air Cargo Firm Leases Cabot Space

Kintetsu World Express, Inc. (USA), has leased 12,000 sq. ft. of office and warehouse space in the Cabot, Cabot & Forbes inventory building at 345 Oyster Pt. Blvd. in the CC&F South San Francisco Office Industrial Park.

Kintetsu, owned by Kinki Nippon Tourist Co. of Japan, offers general air cargo services. The company will move into its new quarters in December from its present location at 325 Corey Way, South San Francisco, according to Regional Manager Y. Ted Hirai.

Rapid growth of the firm's air cargo tonnage, particularly overseas to Japan, necessitated the expansion to over three times the old building area. Kintitsu is expanding operations in several U.S. cities.

Roy I. Anderson of Anderson Associates, San Francisco, represented both parties in the lease transaction.

A New Way To Keep The School Clean

A new proposal to the students of Serramonte High School has been given by their Executive Board and Student Congress.

The proposal states that if the students can keep the malls of Serramonte clean for the entire week they will be put on rally schedule the following Monday and school will be excused at 1:40 p.m.

Two students and two faculty members judge the school's appearance on a scale of one to five. It is hoped that this will prove to be an effective means of keeping the school clean.

Famed Skaters

Two Canadians who have dominated dance skating on the North American continent are amateurs. They are in their third season as professionals with the 1974 edition of Holiday on Ice and they can be seen at the Cow Palace Jan. 1 through Jan. 6.

Fire Chief Warns Of Gas Hoarding

Is it worth risking your life, your home and your car just to avoid running out of gasoline?

"Every consumer who 'stockpiles' gasoline exposes his family and his possessions to the real danger of deadly explosion and fire," warns Fire Chief Schrock.

"In the face of gasoline shortages, many householders and motorists are hoarding fuel without thinking about the tragedies they could cause, says the Chief.

Be alert to gasoline's danger signals, the Chief urges consumers. "Any smell of gasoline in a storage room or automobile trunk is good evidence of a vapor leak in the container and should be taken care of immediately," he says.

To store gasoline at home, Chief Schrock advises use of an approved safety can — never a glass jug, discarded bleach bottle or makeshift container.

Keep the gasoline in a well-ventilated area where it can't be tipped or damaged accidentally, and keep it well out of the reach of small children. Never store it in the same room with hot water heating equipment, where a pilot light or sparking switch could set off an explosion of accumulated vapors.

"This means that home storage areas such as utility rooms and garages shouldn't be used for gasoline, especially if hearing equipment is located there," the Chief emphasizes.

"Carrying extra gasoline in the trunk of the car also can create an explosive situation," he further warns. "Gasoline varpos can filter from the trunk into the car's interior where the striking of a match or an electrical system spark can set off a powerful explosion."

If spare gasoline must be carried on the road, use a metal or approved plastic can that is absolutely vapor-tight," Chief Schrock recommends. "Approved safety cans, which should be used elsewhere, are designed to vent vapors, which makes them unsuitable in an automobile. Instead, use a container with perfect seals on both the cap of the fill opening and the pouring spout. Also, never fill the container completely — leave a little room for the gasoline to expand as it's warmed by the heat of the day and of the car."

Pier Dog Ban OKd

Dogs were banned from the Pacifica Municipal Pier — with or without leash — by the Pacifica City Council Monday night.

Only a seeing-eye dog leading a blind person may put his paw onto the new 1,050-foot long fishing pier, once the ordinance becomes effective.

City Mgr. David Thompson complained that since the pier's dedication on Nov. 10, the city has received many complaints about dogs. The major problem cited was the dogs soiling the pier.

Councilmen also asked that the Humane Society officer check the pier for strays daily.

"There's no way stray dogs can escape when they're caught on the pier," one councilman observed.

Library Resources Expansion Asked

Every resident of the State of California, regardless of age, his geographic location, or social, economic, educational status, has the need for, and the right to, a wide variety and depth of library and other informational services, to assist him in his daily activities, including his job, continuing education and use of leisure time.

The Master Plan of a State Library Sharing System, administered by Reference Centers, in San Francisco and Los Angeles, coordinated through strong local systems, is essential in a democracy, so we can act constructively as individuals, collectively with knowledge.

In 1963, $800,000 was allotted in California, to set up a system. If libraries met the criteria for a system — and three libraries did — this money could be used to begin one. The system was to cooperate with all other libraries.

San Francisco and Los Angeles acted as the two reference center libraries in California. They now serve 95 per cent of the libraries in California. They are dependent on State library funds. A Peninsula library system now exists in our area. Six libraries in San Mateo County — all but Menlo Park and South San Francisco — belong to it.

The amount for the State's library system has remained $800,000 a year, and each year must be revoted.

This year, on a per capita basis, the six libraries in San Mateo County received their portions, $11,888 (of the $800,000 for the State) for 500,000 people. This amount of money maintains the teletype and delivery service in the area.

Recreation Commission Proposal

S. San Francisco Parks Patrol Asked

South San Francisco has no city ordinance to control personal conduct in public parks.

The Parks and Recreation Commission proposed that such an ordinance be incorporated into law and discussed it briefly at their Dec. 6 meeting.

According to Dick Milkovich, acting director of the commission, "We have worked up a report of about 10 pages in which we have listed every conduct restriction possible; curfew, street vendors, drinking of alcoholic beverages, excessive noise."

At present, however, police cannot site offenders of the basic and common laws governing most other city parks. This important issue will be presented to the city council in January.

Westboro Park is nearing completion and the building of the recreation center will begin sometime next year. "It has been under construction for about three years," Milkovich said, "and is in the second phase.

"An $83,000 federal grant is being processed in San Francisco at this time; $45,000 will go toward the completion of Westboro Park, and $38,000 will be used for construction of Sign Hill," he said.

The commission is also waiting for the marina feasibility report. "The report is still a couple of weeks away," said Frank Pendergast, commissioner. "If you leave an apple in the tree too long, it will dry up and wrinkle. We can't let this project sit too long, or it will die," he said.

Bids for the marina patrol boat went out Dec. 10, according to James Morton, Commissioner. "We have layed out a general outline of what kind of boat we want and we have asked the various boat designers and builders to present their plans to us," he said.

The commission engaged in a lengthy discussion concerning co-sponsored city clubs.

According to the outline of policies and procedures, "the purpose of the club must be recreational in nature and designed to bring people of line interests together."

Representatives from four local clubs were present at the meeting and a few points drawn into the outline were questioned.

The president of the Whirlaways Square Dancing Club noted that policy dictates that "any park and recreation commission member may attend any group meeting and take advantage of the rights and privileges," he said.

All commission members agreed that the complaint was a valid one. Pendergast made a motion that the words "excluding voting privileges" be added to the point in question, and the motion was passed.

The statement which requires the preparation of an "annual co-sponsored club financial and program report" also came under attack from the square dancing club president.

"The commission does not provide us with any funds; there is no out-of-pocket expense by the city," he claimed. "Why do you require a financial statement now, when we have not had to produce one in the last 22 years?"

Secretary Lura Sellick explained that "a group cannot hold functions by which they will profit.

'74 Front Drive Subaru GL Coupe

We gave it good looks and high mileage. (around 25 mpg) Then we got carried away!

We built in performance: Front wheel drive for gutty traction and straight-arrow stability. Rack and pinion steering for sports car handling. The unique Quadrozontal engine for muscle and stamina. And peace and quiet.

We added comfort: Fully independent suspension for big-car comfort. MacPherson struts up front to make a good ride even better. "...the world's most comfortable economy car," says Motor Trend.

We loaded it with features: Highback bucket seats (recline to 17 different positions). Tinted glass all around. AM pushbutton radio. Carpeting. Radial tires on three of our four models. And many, many more.

We made a model for everyone: The spirited GL Coupe. (with tachometer, electric rear window defogger, racing stripes and front disc brakes). The hard working Wagon. The handsome 4-Door. The money-saving 2-Door.

Subaru '74. We could sell it on gas mileage alone. But there's so much more. Test it today at:
